SWINDLERS IN CLEVER GAME; WORKED HERE

Whiteside Co. Laborer Fleeced Out of $6000 Savings

Because he failed to heed the admonition so repeatedly given out by banking institutions—"Consult Your Banker"—before he drew $6,000 of the savings he had accumulated by years of hard labor, a Whiteside county man was the victim of a clever confidence game, which had its culmination in Dixon several weeks ago, at which time The Telegraph withheld publication of the news at the request of the authorities in the hope that the culprits could be apprehended.

But the weeks have passed without the hoped-for arrest of the swindlers, and The Telegraph has been authorized to publish the facts, authenticated by the victim's banker. And here is the story:

Sought Dormant Stock.
This man was called from his supper table one evening to meet a stranger at the door, who said he had been advised that he could purchase some shares of stock in a purported Mexican holding company there. The victim answered that he had no such stock, but admitted his son might have some, and on his promise to ask the youth, the "purchaser" left, calling again later.

At this later call the "agent" explained that this particular stock had laid dormant on the New York Stock Exchange for years, but that a certain bonding house, with which his brother was connected, was secretly trying to secure control of as much of this stock as they could; but the "agent" explained that because of his brother's affiliation with the bonding house it was necessary that he act under an assumed name; and finally he persuaded the Whiteside county man to help him purchase some of the stock which was reported to be in the Whiteside county city.

Promised Commission.
The future victim "fell" when promised 25 per cent commission on all profits. He called at an address given him by the stranger in his home city, found a man with some shares of the stock mentioned, purchased it, returned to his "employer" and together they came to the "agent" of the purported bond house at a hotel in Dixon, where they were paid in cash for the stock. A handsome profit, of which the victim was given his promised commission, was realized.

From the "agent" the two learned that a certain man living at rooming house on First street in Dixon and a former resident of Casper, Wyoming, had a block of this same stock and they at once sought him out, purchased his stock and were about to leave when the "agent" mentioned the name of another Casper man who had a big block of stock. At this setting the man whose stock they had just purchased flew into a violent rage, during he imparted the information that the Casper man whose name had been mentioned had run away with his wife.

Had Not "Revenge."
As he cooled down he craftily expressed grief that even though he had lost his wife he was partially "even," for his wife had given him her second husband's stock in the Mexican concern.

Whereupon they started to dicker for its purchase. It developed it would require more money than the visiting purchasers could command, and the Whiteside county man was persuaded to put $5,000 into the deal on receipt of money which the others would have telegraphed to them.

Cashed Certificates.
He agreed, returned to his home in Whiteside county, waited information that the others' money had been telegraphed to Dixon; went to his bank and cashed $6,000 worth of certificates of deposit with a young employee in the institution, explaining that the men with whom he was dealing would accept only cash, and left with the money.

A short time later he returned with a stock certificate in the Mexican holding company, which he gave to the same young clerk, requesting that it be transferred to his name.

MAN WHO TOOK CAR FROM POLO GARAGE CAUGHT

Captured in Carroll Co. Within Short Time Monday

John Lovinski, who claims Portland, Ore., as his home, is in the Ogle county jail at Oregon awaiting arraignment on a charge of theft of a Hudson coach from the Highway Garage in Polo early Monday morning, his capture in the stolen car being effected by Sheriff Wise of Carroll county on route 27, near Lanark, a few hours after he had taken the car from the Polo garage.

The theft of the car at 5:30 o'clock Monday morning was especially bold and was accomplished while the night man, Chester Graehling was at work. He heard the car being driven from the garage and at first thought it was being taken out by the proprietor, Calvin Bemis. However his mind was not at perfect ease and in a few minutes he called Mr. Bemis and learned that the proprietor had not left his home. The alarm was spread and within a few hours the alleged thief was captured in Carroll county, being returned to Oregon by Sheriff Good Monday afternoon. Parked on the street near the Polo garage was found a Chevrolet car which had been stolen in Rockford Sunday night, and it is believed Lovinski was the thief in that case, also.

TOLEDO CHILD IS TAKEN FROM BED; ATTACKED; SLAIN

Horrible Crime Early Today Mystifies Authorities

Toledo, O., May 29—(AP)—A man early today entered the home of Alex Sielagowski, here, and took Dorothy, aged seven, from the bed where she was sleeping with her three sisters, carried her to his automobile, attacked and killed her, and then twenty minutes later threw the body on the porch of her grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dobrzynski, a few doors from the child's home.

Police immediately started search for a "small man in a black suit," whom Sielagowski said he saw drive away from in front of the home a few minutes after the disappearance of Dorothy. Sielagowski said he also saw a small covered auto truck stop in front of the home.

The child's father and two brothers were asleep in a front bedroom. Police said the slayers apparently were acquainted with the Sielagowski home as they entered it through a back door, which was unlocked with a key. Creeping up the stairway the man seized the child clad only in her night dress. A sister, Stella, was awakened by the man and cried "They're taking Dorothy away." Her cries awakened the father who looking out of his bedroom window saw the automobile drive away.

The father said that about 20 minutes after the child was abducted he saw two automobiles drive up in front of the Dobrzynski home. He thought nothing of it and immediately left for police headquarters. Returning with officers he noticed a huddled figure on the Dobrzynski porch and investigating found the body of his child.

The coroner rendered a verdict of death by strangulation. The coroner said the child had been attacked. The father is employed in a factory.

Ask Punishment

Washington, May 29.—(AP)—An urgent note has been addressed by American Charge D'Affaires Schoenfeld at Mexico City to the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, requesting that steps be taken to bring about the prompt apprehension and punishment of the murderer of John F. Noidine, an American citizen, killed near Tuxpan, May 19.

Noidine was a resident of Bessemer, Mich., where his body was sent last week.

Kenneth Church returned last evening from a business trip to Kankakee.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN AT 5 O'CLOCK TODAY

Filibuster in the Upper House Ended With Vote to Adjourn

Washington, May 29—(AP)—Congress definitely decided to quit work at 5:30 P. M. today with the House and Senate approving a resolution setting that time as the adjournment hour.

The House vote was 155 to 9. In the Senate twenty five Democrats joined with 21 Republicans in supporting the adjournment resolution while 16 Democrats, 18 Republicans and the one Farmer-Labor, Shipstead, voted against adoption.

After the roll call the clerk announced that Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming should have been recorded as voting in the negative.

There were a number of shifts from the voting yesterday, among those switching being the two Missouri Senators, Reed and Hawes, who had objected to any adjournment until the Mississippi river barge line bill was passed.

When the majority leader, Curtis of Kansas, presented his resolution Senator Johnson suggested the absence of a quorum.

After the call of the Senate he asked that the resolution go over for a day under the rules but Senator Curtis declared all the precedents had been that it was a resolution of the highest privilege.

Dawes Ruled.
"And the chair so holds," said Vice President Dawes.

"Ayes and noes," "Ayes and noes" came the cry from around the chamber as Senators seconded that demand with uplifted hands.

"The clerk will call the roll," ordered Dawes.

Yesterday the Senate reached a 40 to 40 impasse on the subject and Vice President Dawes broke the tie by casting his vote against adjournment.

Senator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, who had spelled his colleague Senator Ashurst, who held the Senate floor through the night, yielded to Senator Curtis for a quorum call and the presentation of the resolution. Adoption of the measure left the Boulder Dam bill as the unfinished business.

TAX REDUCTION MEASURE SIGNED BY MR. COOLIDGE

The Bill is Now a Law: Cuts Taxes Over $222,000,000

Washington, May 29—(AP)—The tax reduction bill was signed today by President Coolidge.

The measure, which now is law, provides for an estimated annual reduction in tax payments of $222,495,000.

However, the cut in government revenue under the act is estimated at only $155,000,000 for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, the full force of the reduction not being felt until the following fiscal year.

Corporations are the chief beneficiaries under the new act which makes virtually no changes in the present individual income tax rates.

The law provides:

Reduction of the corporation tax from 13 1-2 to 12 per cent. Loss in revenue $123,450,000.

Increase in exemption allowed corporations from $2,000 to $5,000. Loss $12,000,000.

Repeal of the 3 per cent automobile tax. Loss $66,000,000.

Several Increases
Increase in exemptions in admissions tax from 75 cents to $3. Loss $17,000,000.

Increase in exemption from 10 per cent tax on club dues from $10 to $25. Loss $1,000,000.

Increase from $20,000 to $30,000 on maximum exemption for earned income credit. Loss $4,500,000.

Reduction tax on wines to pre-war level. Loss $1,000,000.

Repeat of tax on cereal beverages. Loss $185,000.

Reduction in fees on druggists dealing in narcotics, $6 to $3. Loss $150,000.

Increase in tax on prize fights for tickets of $5 and over from 10 per cent to 25 per cent. Increase in revenue $750,000.

Withholding tax at source in cases of non-residence, increase $2,000,000.

Revision of tax on foreign built yachts (customs). Increase $50,000.

Reductions $225,295,000
Total reductions amount to $225,295,000. A part of this is offset by increases totaling $2,800,000. This gives a net reduction of $222,495,000.

While the act makes numerous changes in the administrative provisions with a view to simplification, no change is provided in the present law prohibiting publicity for income tax returns.

The original House proposal to abolish the practice of allowing consolidated tax returns to be made by affiliated corporations was stricken out by the senate and the new law is virtually the same as at present.

Likewise, the existing law relating to penalization of corporations formed for the purpose of evading surtax payments is retained in favor of an attempt at modification originally proposed in the House bills.

Other Provisions
The reduction in the corporation tax is effective on income for this calendar year on which taxes are payable next year. The House had proposed to make it effective on 1927 income on which taxes are due this calendar year. This change in the final measure, therefore, makes no change in the taxes paid by corporations this year and with the next government fiscal year beginning on July 1. The present taxes of corporations will be paid for half of that year, thus accounting for only part of the reductions allowed under the bill becoming effective during this fiscal year.

Repeal of the automobile tax is effective immediately but the changes made in the levies on admissions and club dues become effective 30 days from today. Likewise, the changes in the cereal beverage and wine taxes become effective in 30 days.

Although the President has not reached a definite decision regarding the Mississippi barge line bill, he probably will approve the measure.

It was disclosed today that while Mr. Coolidge believes the proposal is not exactly what he desired relative to the power of the Secretary of War to make sales or leases, he has concluded that the measure is the best.

DIXON WOMAN'S BROTHER TAKES HIS LIFE SUNDAY

Ill Health is Cause of the Suicide of Emmet Graham Rockford

The Rockford Register Gazette of Monday evening published the following concerning the suicide of Emmett Graham of that city, a brother of Mrs. James Buchanan of Dixon, brief mention of which was made in The Telegraph Monday evening:

Ill health was given by relatives as the reason for the suicide early Sunday morning of Emmett Graham, 44, 215 Twelfth street, who arose before other members of his family, dressed, went to the bathroom, and turned on the gas of an instantaneous heater, laid down on the floor and awaited death.

At 6:30 o'clock, C. J. Henderson, a brother-in-law, smelled the gas, investigated and found Graham apparently lifeless. A physician summoned immediately declared life extinct. Graham had turned on the gas shortly after 5 o'clock.

Broods Over Ill Health
According to Mrs. Graham her husband had been brooding over his health for several weeks and on Saturday had remarked that he might as well do away with himself since he was "only in the way." Stomach trouble had bothered him for weeks so that he was unable to work at his trade, that of painting.

Besides his wife, Mr. Graham is survived by three children, the Misses Evelyn and Margorie and Emmett, Jr., 4. Two sisters, Mrs. James Buchanan of Dixon, and Mrs. William Smith, of Kewanee, also survive.

LEE COUNTY'S FARMERS PART OF BIG MEET

Will Gather Saturday in DeKalb to Plan Further Action

A great meeting of farmers of nine northern Illinois counties, their families and friends, will be held on the campus of the DeKalb high school Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, its purpose being to protest against the recent veto by President Coolidge of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

Decision to hold this big protest meeting next Saturday was reached at a meeting of representatives of the farm bureaus of the nine counties in DeKalb yesterday, in which the Lee County Farm Bureau was represented; and President Anson Rosekrantz of the Lee County Bureau today issued an appeal to every farmer in Lee county to attend the meeting, to take their families and to invite all their friends.

There will be speakers from each of the counties and the protestors will be asked to adopt resolutions condemning the veto and showing the position of Illinois farmers to be four-square behind the state's representatives in Congress, all of whom but a few from the Chicago district, voted for the farm relief measure.

CARRY FIGHT TO K. C.

Chicago, May 29—(AP)—From two sources today came announcements that supporters of farm relief legislation would carry their fight to the Republican national convention at Kansas City next month.

In Chicago, M. J. Tobin, who was keynote at the Iowa state Republican convention, issued a statement that fourteen agricultural states have organized a committee to present their plea for farm aid to the national convention.

At St. Paul, Minn., announcement was made by J. F. Reed, President of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, that farmers of that state will mobilize within the next fortnight in four sections. Preparatory to going to Kansas City.

The 14 state organization announced in Chicago is composed, Tobin said, of supporters of former Governor Frank O. Lowden and of the favorite son candidates, Senator Watson of Indiana, and Curtis of Kansas.

States represented on the committee, Tobin said, are: Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Missouri, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Montana.

Mr. Sharp has been in the state service for 20 years, ten of which have been spent at the Dixon institution, where he is very highly regarded.

Helen Wills Easily Beats German Champ

Autell, France, May 29—(AP)—Helen Wills today defeated the German champion, Cecilie Aussen, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

The American champion was not forced to extend herself to win from the German titleholder. She played carefully and softly in the first set but caught her opponent out of position several times. The winner's court strategy was superior throughout. At the last she was striking fiercely like the Helen of old.

NEGRO, SENT TO PRISON ON FALSE EVIDENCE, FREED

White Woman Confesses Testimony was Not the Truth

Columbia, S. C., May 29—(AP)—Conscience and justice have set Ben Bess, Florence County Negro, free—after thirteen long years behind the bars—an innocent man.

The woman whose testimony sent the Negro to prison on charges of assault for a thirty year term has filed an affidavit, part of which reads:

"Since I have not much longer to live, I hereby desire as much as possible to undo the great wrong I have done this Negro, Ben Bess, and I hereby declare my testimony upon the trial of this case to be untrue."

Justice acted when Governor Richards gave Bess a full pardon.

When Bess went to the penitentiary he had some property. He lost this and when he was given his freedom he was destitute.

The Governor expressed the hope that the South Carolina legislature at its next session would take steps to right the grave injustice done this Negro.

A Columbia newspaper has started a fund for Bess and this has reached $364.

The woman, who caused Bess to be sent to prison and who is white, failed to give any reason for her false testimony in her affidavit.

PART WAREHOUSE STERLING PLANT FELL ON SUNDAY

Follows Fire of Ten Days Ago: No One of Men is Injured

Following closely on the heels of the damaging fire of 19 days ago, which caused a loss of more than $400,000 at the Northwestern Barb Wire Mill in Sterling came another disaster Sunday evening when a portion of the top floor of the new three story warehouse gave way, carrying several tons of wire crashing through the second and first floors to the basement, and also pushed out a portion of the south wall of the building. The accident occurred about 6 o'clock Sunday night and was due to an overload being piled on the top floor, much of the material being a finished product which had been placed there following the fire.

It is considered fortunate that the accident occurred on Sunday. Had it happened on a working day, it might have cost several lives.

Although the reconstruction cost will be considerable, the financial loss is small compared to the loss of the much needed floor space and of the time that will be required in the making of the repairs. Since the recent fire it has been necessary to use every bit of available space. In the effort to clean up the plant after the fire, the materials have been piled wherever space could be found. The load was too heavy on a portion of the top floor and it gave way.

A railroad car on the switch track just south of the building was damaged some by the falling brick. The sprinkler system was damaged and the basement was filled with several feet of water before it could be shut off.

Move for National Guard Co. in Dixon

Fruition of the movement looking toward the organization of a company of the Illinois National Guard in Dixon appears certain by the end of the week, it was announced today. About thirty of Dixon's youth have enrolled as members of the prospective company, and it is expected the new company will be mustered in late in the week or early next week. The young men who are backing the movement will welcome many additional members and applications for information concerning the company may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Assembly Still Alive Governor Small's Decree

Springfield, Ill., May 29—(AP)—Governor Small has issued a proclamation declaring the second special session of the 55th General Assembly still alive and has ordered both houses to reconvene Thursday.

Both the Senate and the House voted to adjourn last week, but neither body concurred in the action of the other as required by law. Legislators proceeded to their homes although the adjournments were illegal and the action of the Governor was necessary to straighten out the tangle.

Possibility of an attempt to act on the distribution of the gasoline tax was seen when the Assembly reconvened, as the proclamation specifically referred to the necessity of acting on this question.

The session originally was called upon to enact home rule for Chicago over its public utilities and the distribution of the gasoline tax among the counties. The gasoline tax law was declared unconstitutional several months ago. The legislators returned to their home last week without passing on either of the two most important measures.

Earl Kennedy leaves this evening to spend a few days fishing in Wisconsin.

Miss Doris Miller of Chicago will spend Memorial day with her parents, Sheriff and Mrs. Ward Miller.

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER IN NORTH OCEAN

No Further Word Has Been Received in Norway Cities

Oslo, May 29—(AP)—An auxiliary relief expedition which the Norwegian government has been preparing to search for the dirigible Italia has been suspended indefinitely, as the Italian government was said to be inclined to await further developments.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant Lutetow Holm, crack Norwegian flyer, boarded the sealer Hubby at Tromsø with his hydro-airplane and will sail as soon as possible for Spitzbergen to conduct an air reconnaissance over the northern coast of Spitzbergen.

Reports that the Italia had come down on Amsterdam Island along the northern coast of Spitzbergen are not credited in Oslo as nothing to this effect has been received from the Italia di Milano now battling her way in a snow storm in the waters north of Spitzbergen in an effort to find trace of the Italia.

RUN INTO BAD WEATHER

(Copyright, 1928, by the Associated Press)

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, May 29—(AP)—(11:00 a. m.)—Unfavorable weather conditions, including intense cold and a heavy snow, were prevailing at Kings Bay today, increasing the difficulty of the base ship Italia di Milano, now out in the Polar Sea, searching for the missing dirigible Italia.

This morning a north wind was blowing and the snow was so thick that it was impossible to see the nearby mountains.

The Italia di Milano was thought on her way north from the northernmost part of Spitzbergen and it was considered that it would be difficult for the ship to find an opening to get through the ice under the present weather conditions.

(The above dispatch filed out of Spitzbergen at 11:00 a. m. Spitzbergen Time, or 5:00 a. m. Eastern standard time, made no mention of reports received in Rome and Oslo, but wholly unconfirmed, that the Italia had come down on Amsterdam Island, which is near the scene of the operations of the Italia di Milano.)

SOCIETY NEWS

THE muffled drum's sad roll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few
On Fame's eternal camping-ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

No answer of the foe's advance
Now swells upon the wind;
No troubled thought at midnight haunts
Of loved ones left behind;
No vision of the morrow's strife
The warrior's dream alarms;
No braying horn nor screaming file
At dawn shall call to arms.

Their shivered swords are red with rust;
Their plumed heads are bowed;
Their haughty banner, trailed in dust,
Is now their natural shroud;
And plenteous funeral-tears have washed
The red stains from each brow,
And their proud forms, in battle gashed,
And free from anguish now.

The neighing steed, the flashing blade,
The trumpet's stirring blast;
The charge, the dreadful cannon-ade,
The din and shout, are past;
No war's wild note, not glory's peal,
Shall thrill with fierce delight
Those breasts that nevermore shall feel
The rapture of the fight.

Rest on, embalmed and sainted dead!
Dear as the blood you gave,
No impious footsteps here shall tread
The herbage of your grave;
Nor shall your glory be forgot
While fame her record keeps,
Or honor points the hallowed spot
Where valor proudly sleeps.

Yon minstrel's voiceless stone
In deathless song shall tell,
When many a vanquished age hath flown,
The story how ye fell.
Nor wreck, nor change, or winter's blight,
Nor Time's remorseless doom,
Shall dim one ray of holy light
That gilds your glorious tomb.

Short Interviews With Famous Women

By NEA Service

Success really should mean something more than an accumulation of wardrobes, cars and vacation trips, according to Clara Bow, the little red-headed cinema star who is alleged to have more "It" and fan-mail than anyone in Hollywood.

"One thing that acting-success brings is more work. Perhaps that is its most satisfactory reward. If you get more fun out of it than anything else, and I do," Clara said. "Now, instead of standing in line for a chance, as I had to when I was an extra girl, I can keep busy steadily, one picture after the next, putting myself through the most thrilling emotional experiences."

"Something that success does NOT bring is simple and natural companionship. Instead, it seems to cut one off from people. After success, there still are friends to be made and I don't know but making real friends is more of a success than success itself."

"Furthermore, after success there always is the opportunity for growth. From the success of youth, there is the success of mature art to be developed. There is the responsibility not to disappoint, not to fail, not to misuse chances. A star part in a movie is after all, just a beginning. And I want to keep going along so I needn't be ashamed of the road."

MRS. BOVEY RETURNS FROM VISIT IN FLORIDA—

In the afternoon music was enjoyed, some of the guests giving solos and the radio also supplied music. During the afternoon Mrs. Killmer was invited to the dining room where many gifts were placed upon the table for her to open.

Oak Forest School Closed With Picnic

The Oak Forest School, located two miles south of Gap Grove, closed with a program on Wednesday and a picnic on Friday.

On Wednesday morning the drills in music were given under the supervision of Mrs. Rae Kreider of Sterling, who has been the music supervisor for the past year, and much credit is due her for her untiring efforts.

The following program was rendered:
Songs and drills by the upper grades.

Songs by the lower grades with Gale Janssen as soloist.
Recitation—Kenneth Buzzard.
Song—Helen Friedrichs, accompanied at piano by Mrs. Kreider.
Monologue—Estella Boucher.
Recitation—Helen Friedrichs.
Two pupils, Kenneth Buzzard and Helen Friedrichs were awarded certificates for perfect attendance, the latter having been neither absent nor tardy for three consecutive years.

After the program the parents and patrons of the school had the opportunity of seeing the work done by each of the grades which will be taken to the Fair.

The 8th grade pupils very successfully passed their examinations under the efficient teaching of Miss Dorothy Beede. The pupils are Rosie John, Merle Plock, Freddie John and Wayne Janssen.

On Friday 75 patrons and children of the school, enjoyed the annual picnic which was held at the Yates cottage, located near the banks of the picturesque Rock river.

At noon a most appetizing dinner was served, including hot chicken and noodles, baked beans, sandwiches, ice cream and cake. After dinner games were enjoyed by the children.

After a very enjoyable day being spent, another very successful year was anticipated with Mrs. Rae Kreider as music supervisor and Miss Beede again teaching the school, this being her 5th year at Oak Forest.

Gyros and Gyrettes Enjoyed Dinner Dance

Last evening at the Colonial Inn at Grand Detour the Gyro club of Dixon entertained at their annual dinner-dance, their guests being the Gyrettes. A most appetizing dinner was enjoyed, followed by a happy evening in dancing.

Annual May Pageant Yesterday at Colony Was Great Success

The annual May pageant given by the female patients at the Dixon State Hospital was held yesterday afternoon on the spacious lawn in front of the main building and was witnessed by several hundred. Miss Margaret Besand of Rockford, was crowned Queen of the May in the pageant in which more than a hundred women and girls participated. A throne, prettily decorated with boughs and covered with festoons of paper, formed the principal station before which the many pretty drills were staged. On each side of the space in front of the throne the bridal wreath bushes formed a natural hiding place for the fairies and dancers, who took part in the May day fete, which was of unusual beauty and color.

the left of the throne and opened the program with a short concert and furnished numbers between the sets. Twelve flower girls in white with floral wreaths in their hair and carrying streamers of flowers were the escort for the queen in the first drill of the program. After the queen had been seated, the girls furnished a very clever drill, and were followed by 12 smaller girls in pink who executed a very pretty drill and formed a fine chorus.

Twelve young women attired in shepherdess costumes and carrying their crooks, gave a drill before the queen and were followed by twelve colored girls dressed in yellow and gold costumes, each carrying a floral wreath. Twelve highland lassies in kilts came next with their Scotch dances and they were followed by twelve Japanese girls carrying their parasols. Eight young women, four of whom were attired as colonial maidens and four as men of that period with their powdered wigs, danced the minuet before the throne. They were followed by sixteen young girls who cleverly executed the May pole dance and each with a pink or blue streamer wound the big pole. Again the twelve little flower girls appeared on the lawn and escorted the queen as she left the throne and the pageant closed.

The entire pageant demonstrated great time and effort being spent on the part of Miss Anna Becker, physical director at the institution who has been engaged for the past eight weeks in drilling the various groups. Patients and employees enjoyed a fine entertainment. The celebration was originally set for last Saturday but on account of the rain was postponed. All of the costumes used in the drill by the various groups were the handiwork of the women patients of the institution sewing room.

THE vast majority of women doctors and nurses would tell you, if you asked them, to employ Kotex.

For they say that too much emphasis cannot be placed on the sanitary pad one uses.

Now Kotex—supreme in the features that have brought to women a new hygiene, with attendant peace-of-mind—has been improved.

But after experimenting two years, we have perfected a new shape for Kotex. One not only more comfortable but which prevents awkward bulkiness to mar smooth fashionable lines.

And we have perfected a fleecy softness never known before, ending all chance of irritation—of chafing or binding.

Now, the greatly increased sale of the Kotex with these two great improvements has made it possible permanently to reduce the regular price considerably.

Now buy the Improved Kotex, at the new low price at any drug, department or dry goods store. Get it today.

THE REAL MEANING OF MEMORIAL DAY.

Time has a way of healing things and making sharp outlines harsh.

The slopes of cemetery ridge, outside the town of Gettysburg, are grass-grown and peaceful. Vicksburg is surrounded by a smiling, green parkway. The woods of Virginia's wilderness are as quiet as they were before the white men came, and there are no ruined farmhouses or burned barns between Atlanta and the sea. The Civil War has slipped far back into the past.

But tomorrow, as on every 30th of May, we call it back again; not in all its red, ugly horror, but as a rather picturesque, heroic, romantic memory. We do this, we say, in order to pay homage to the men who fought. With it we conjure up scenes from other wars; names like El Caney, Santiago and Manila Bay, somewhat overshadowed of recent years by such words as Cantigny, Belleau Wood and Montfaucon.

Yet our reverence to these things seems to be rather a surface matter. We watch the parades and listen to the bands and the orators today; but tomorrow we put it all away and resume the daily routine. Memorial Day stands out to most of us, it is to be suspected, more as a day on which we do not have to work than as a solemn time of remembrance and consecration.

We need to recapture the solemnity of the original Decoration Day. Perhaps we could do it by bringing back in all their ghastly horror the war scenes that we talk about so glibly today. We speak of Gettysburg, for instance, and our minds picture the splendid pageant of Pickett's charge; but a man who fought at Gettysburg could give us a different picture. He could show us men disembowelled, torn asunder, trampled underfoot, run through with bayonets, smashed to bleeding fragments in that "splendid pageant"; and if we could see the picture as he sees it we might put more spirit into our observance of the day.

For the day's real significance lies in the fact that a great many thousands of men have given up their lives for the sake of that red, white and blue symbol that heads today's parades. They surrendered their youth, their hopes, their dreams, to die before their time; and they did it for a great ideal. All of the horror, all of the agony, of those battles are part of the price that was paid for the country we have today. Blood and tears and sorrow and pain helped buy the peace and prosperity of Decoration Day, 1928.

What should we do, then?

Chiefly, we could make our patriotism a little deeper and broader. We could do it by remembering the sacrifices that this day commemorates; by reminding ourselves that our heritage, as Americans, was dearly bought. The freedom and happiness we have today did not come by chance. They cost a great price. We must maintain them. We must be worthy of them.

A CITY PLAN.

Dixon's growth and development over the years to come will be greater, faster and more satisfactory in every way if the city will formulate and adopt a comprehensive city plan right now, a city plan which will look forward a century.

We need to enlarge our city limits. We need a zoning ordinance. We need to reserve sites for various civic improvements and we need to protect property from depreciation by the location of the wrong kinds of business of buildings in the wrong places.

A little forethought now will show its value in the years to come.

THE CITY DUMP.

The City of Dixon has thoughtfully provided a municipal dumping ground. It is located on Route 26, the road to Polo, just north of town and signs show its location plainly.

Users of this dumping ground are abusing their privilege. Some of them seem to feel that if they get within sight of the place they can deposit their rubbish any old place they want to.

The dumping ground is provided for the convenience of the public. Those who abuse this convenience should be disciplined.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

They steered their boat up to the shore, and Clowdy then began to roar. "Hello, there, Mister! How are you?" And, will you let us land? We're Tinymites, and out for fun. We'll promise no harm will be done. Why, sure!" the fat man answered, "come ashore. I'll lend a hand."

"Throw out the anchor!" Scouty cried. "Just let it drop down over the side. While we are here, we do not want our boat to float away. The fat man's nice as he can be. Perhaps some funny things we'll see, if we just run around a while. With him we'll spend the day."

They dropped the anchor in, at last, which made their wondrous houseboat fast. And then the Tinymites jumped on shore. The fat man laughed aloud. "My goodness, you are small," said he. "Not one of you as big as me. Don't fret about that, though, as long as you're a happy crowd."

"Now, tell me where you're heading for. Perhaps I have some treats in store. The River of Fun is mine, you see. I'm keeper of the gate. If you should raise those gates up high, your little boat could sail right by, and what you'd see down yonder stream, I'm sure you'd think was great."

Then Scouty said, "Tis best you know that is where we'd like to go. 'All right,' replied the man, 'but first I'll show you where I live. Right through this pathway, follow me. My home I'd like you all to see. I have some things which you will want, and I will gladly give."

The Tinymites trailed along behind, and Carpy said, "Oh, my, you're kind." They traveled down the shoreline to a climbing path of stone. The fat man said, "I'm ruler here, so there is not a thing to fear. Up in my funny little house I've always lived alone."

"And now," said Carpy, with a grin, "we'd better pull the anchor in, so we can set sail down this stream. We've loafed here long enough. I'll steer this houseboat from behind, and you will very shortly find that I can do it fine, unless the water gets too rough."

"All right," yelled Clowdy, "we are game!" And, in the little anchor came. The boat began to drift along, but, my but it moved slow. "Hey, work that paddle!" Scouty cried. "Just swing it fast, from side to side. I think you'll find that's one good way to make the houseboat go."

Then Carpy said, "I'll do my best, but after while I get a rest. I thought I only had to steer. This paddle stunt is work." "All right," the other Tinymites cried. "Put, hurry, cause we want a ride. We all will gladly take our turns. We're never known to shirk."

The little houseboat picked up speed. "See, there! That's all we really need," yelled Scouty. "Now we're going fine. Work fast. Don't lose a stroke." Poor Carpy sighed. "I'll try," said he, "but say, this task is tiring me. Just wait until you try it. You will find it is no joke."

They drifted on along the stream. Stream. The trip seemed almost like a dream. The scenery was pretty, and some songbirds chirped hello. Soon Scouty said, "I'll paddle now. Just watch me, and I'll show you how. I only wish we Tinymites knew just where we're going to go."

They swung around a bend nearby, and then the bunch heard Clowdy cry, "Oh, look! I see a sign across this stream. And there's a man. That big sign says the 'River of Fun.' I know now just what should be done. We'll ask that man where we're bound for. He'll tell us, if he can."

(The Tinymites meet the Happy Man in the next story.)

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dearest Marye:
That was too bad about your friend Shirley Wells. But I do see why her father blamed the boy. If he had damaged Mr. Wells' property he'd have been expected to pay for it, wouldn't he?

Because he thinks more of his daughter than his property is no reason why he should be willing to overlook any injury that might result to her. He's the one who will have to pay the bills, and if Shirley really remonstrated with the young man for his reckless driving then Mr. Wells certainly had a right to sue him.

If the boy'd been anything but irresponsible it wouldn't have been necessary to start suit. In the first place, there wouldn't have been an accident at least he wouldn't have been to blame for it. And in the second place, having caused it, he ought to have offered to defray all expenses.

I don't suppose you have any idea of the worries that beset a parent over the wildness of the modern youth. And aside from considerations of mental anguish there's the economic angle to be weighed as well. That ought to appeal to you, with your efficiency. Isn't a child an investment? How would you like to see years of toil and sacrifice for a daughter wasted by the wanton foolishness of a young person?

I surely wouldn't consider you of less importance, Marye, than my pansy bed, and yet I had to have a regular set-to with the new people who've moved in next door because their dog dug up my plants and they didn't seem to think it amounted to anything.

I've worked hard on those pansy beds and I'm not going to have them destroyed. I guess Mr. Wells felt the same way about Shirley. I wish he'd been able to make an example of the young man. Maybe if people always had to pay for the damage they do there'd be less damage and fewer accidents. Getting off too easily only leads people into further recklessness.

With all my love,

MOM.

Dearest Mom:

Florence is on her way, none too happily. She probably will see you before you receive this letter. The old home town will look rather small and seedy.

So I know you will be sweet to her, even if she lets out a bitter word now and then.

It wasn't only leaving that caused Florence's face to assume the expression of an early Christian martyr about to go forth to feed a lion—it was leaving Michello, right at the time when she had him going.

But I think it was just as well for her that she left. Michello is not so much a man as he is a type. By leaving as she did, she always can cherish the comforting illusion that if she had just stuck around, and worked her feminine wiles, Michello would eventually have begged the honor of escorting her to the altar.

Naturally there wasn't a Chinaman's chance of this. She would have just become more hopelessly sunk, and he would have walked out with his characteristic grace and gallantry.

And while she nursed a broken heart, and ruined her looks weeping and emoting, he would have been sending roses to other women, looking soulfully into their eyes, and reciting the sort of poetry that makes a man of Alan's type look for the nearest exit.

I maintain Florence is the winner as things stand now. When she marries some nice salesman, whose energies will be devoted to paying bills rather than paying compliments, she will have a nice romantic memory to play with.

Certainly every woman should have had the experience of having loved and lost an artist or a poet. It is sort of an initiation into life. Living, as I did, in a small town, where poets and artists were scarce, I missed a lot of this sort of thing.

That's the reason Pede appeals so to me now. He has all the romance and beauty in his soul that I never had a chance to develop in mine.

I believe that women who have to go through life without diamonds and automobiles are not nearly so unfortunate and so much to be pitied as those who have never had sonnets written to their eyes, and had artists, with beautiful, slender fingers beg to immortalize them on canvas.

As I look around, it seems to me that a lot of women I see, who have all the evidences of wealth, look very hard and bitter, as though they were striving for something they never had—and the other day I met a woman at Michello's studio, who I was told has been adored by all the artists and writers of this generation. She had something, and it wasn't beauty and it wasn't clothes. I was interested.

Do write and tell me all about Florence.

Lovingly,

MARYE.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—A wider spread in cattle prices is due soon, the Prairie Farmer's weekly agricultural review said today.

For three months, average prices of beef steers on the Chicago market have fluctuated from $12.50 and $13.25. Choice heavy cattle have been most unstable. Breaks and rallies of 50 to 75 cents occurred in rapid succession, with the breaks predominating until the last five or six weeks. Common and medium steers held to the steepest course. Within the next few weeks a change of behavior is likely to appear. A downward trend in low grade steers probably will start as the movement of grass cattle begins, while the market for grain fed steers appears to be set to go up. The result will be a distinct widening of the spread in prices which has been seasonally narrow for the last month.

The present weakness in hog prices probably will remain for several weeks, or until receipts begin to drop down to summer volume. Trade reports indicate a substantial reduction in the size of the spring pig crop, which, if correct, will mean considerably higher prices next winter than last. Lamb receipts are increasing and new crop lambs now dominate the Chicago market. Lower prices are likely in the next thirty days, because of the seasonal gain in arrivals.

Last week's rains have been general over the middle-west, and the crop outlook in both winter wheat and spring wheat sections is improving. However, winter wheat is some distance from maturity. Spring wheat in both United States and Canada has many hazards to meet and the outcome in Europe is far from a final determination. The supply of wheat for the rest of the crop year is ample and about a normal quantity will be carried over, both in the United States and abroad. Later developments will decide whether wheat is to sell for $1.25 or $1.25 during the next twelve months.

Favorable weather for planting, prospects for increased acreage, good rains for starting growth, larger receipts attracted by recent high prices and speculative liquidation all figured in the recent weakness in the corn market. Farm stocks of corn are extremely light, especially in the eastern part of the corn belt. Commercial demand continued active and commercial stocks can be reduced to moderate size by midsummer, so that the market will be sustained on a high level.

Hay stocks are being marketed slowly due to the unfavorable outlook for the new crop. Farmers are holding on to old stocks, which are considerably larger than a year ago. Cutting of the new crop of alfalfa will begin within the next two weeks, and the crop is expected to be below normal.

Egg prices eased a bit last week, but are still firm, with fancy northern stock bringing a premium. Receipts are holding up, although reports from the country indicate that the peak of the laying season has passed. It is expected that prices will remain steady to slightly higher. The broiler crop is later than last year, and prices average higher. Some dealers believe broiler prices will continue firm until well in June.

Farm Seed Assn. to Meet in Chicago Soon

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—Seed verification, stabilizing trade practices and the seed business—wholesale and retail—will be the topics of importance before the twentieth annual convention of the Farm Seed Association of North America here June 26-27.

Prominent among the speakers listed on the two-day program are Alvin Dodd, director general of the Wholesale Dry Goods Association, Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business, commercial publication; Edward C. Parker, assistant chief marketing specialist of the United States Bureau of agricultural, economics; and W. A. Wheeler, chief of the hay, feed and seed division of the same bureau.

Alvin Dodd will deliver an address on "Stabilizing Trade Practices" following the report of officers and standing committees at the opening session. His address will be followed by a talk on "This New Business Era" by Merle Thorpe, Editor of the Nation's Business.

The past and future of timothy will be the topic of Edward C. Parker's address. "First Year's Progress in Seed Verification" will be made by W. A. Wheeler, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A. J. Ogaard, executive secretary of the Farm Seed association will deliver the final address of the first day dealing with "Sound Legislation Backed by Education."

The executive session will be held on the second day. It will include reports of committees and election of official representatives to the second International Congress of the clover and alfalfa seed trades. Prior to the address of Dillon T. Stevens, on "Co-operative Advertising," delegates will elect officers for the ensuing year.

E. F. Grossland, president of the association, has announced that a special invitation has been sent to all seedsmen asking them to attend the convention.

Valuable Hints for Farmers and Their Good Wives

Hog cholera is no respecter of conditions. A herd kept under the best sanitary conditions may be just as susceptible as one raised in filth, but it will be better able to withstand the effects of the disease. A preventive serum treatment is the only safeguard.

It is particularly desirable to use corn and clover seed produced in districts somewhat similar in conditions of soil and climate to the area in which it is planted. For example, northern states require alfalfa seed from plants that have withstood northern winters, and corn from plants that have matured before the date of early frosts.

Sheep and goat lice are particular about their habitation and live only a short time when separated from their "hosts." Both biting and sucking lice normally spend their entire lives on sheep and goats and can live only a short time away from them. However, eggs of the insects may brush from the coats of the insects and continue to hatch for two or three weeks, making it advisable in warm weather to keep uninfested flocks away from corrals and small inclosures until they have been disinfested.

Barley is a crop generally under valued in farming systems. It is an excellent feed grain, ranking second to corn in areas where corn makes a good crop. In regions and on soils where it does well, it is a better feed crop than oats. Barley should be cracked or rolled for feeding in preference to using it whole or finely ground. North of the corn belt it often is possible to grow good fodder corn for silage, using barley as a substitute for the corn grain.

Thorough sterilization of seed is recommended as a control measure against bacterial canker of tomatoes, damage of which may range from negligible injury to such complete destruction of the crop as to cause serious economic loss to the grower.

The Farm Week in Washington

BY FRANK L. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(AP)—Advocated as a measure that will put more money into the farmer's pocket, the bill of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, democrat, Montana, to make the protein content of wheat an important item in grain grading, has called for a showdown in the conflict of opinion that has existed between the department of agriculture and leading farm interests.

The senator's bill, for which there is companion legislation in the house, would amend the Federal Grain Standards act by adding the proviso that such standards as are fixed for wheat include a class or classes showing the percentage of protein. It is supported by the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation, neither of which expect action until the December session is well under way.

For two years the department of agriculture has held that whatever merit there may be in determining the protein content of wheat should be revealed through a systematic survey. In the meantime, farm interests assert, farmers are losing as much as $400 on a carload shipment because they are unable to tell whether their grain is high in protein, a bread-making quality for which dealers pay a premium.

It has been shown by analysis that protein content may range from eight to sixteen percent in a bushel of wheat. The variation of one-tenth of one percent may make a difference of from one to two cents on the bushel. It is not uncommon for high protein wheat to sell at a premium of from five to twenty cents a bushel. There is on record one shipment of wheat which, for its 18.6 percent protein content, brought 65 cents a bushel more than other wheat which contained only 11.5 percent protein.

Farm organizations offer these figures in evidence that protein content is one of the most important factors in grain grading. Economically, they aver, it is doubly important because high protein wheat is produced in virtually every state of the great grain regions of the middle-west and north-west. It is pointed out that protein content does not depend so much on the variety of the grain as on the locality in which it is produced.

To amend the grain standards act, as Senator Walsh suggests, involves conciliation on one vital point. Federal graders generally are not chemists, and to determine protein content chemical analysis must be made. The bill raises the question whether present graders shall be replaced by chemists, or whether they shall be taught to make the necessary analysis. Farm leaders are of the opinion that a protein test, much after the fashion of butterfat tests, every farmer can learn as a part of his dairy business, can be established for the guidance of graders.

An issue is made of the fact that numerous commission men and traders, by hiring chemists to establish the protein content of wheat they have purchased, are enabled to sell it at a huge profit over the ordinary market price paid to the producer.

Ogle County Herd Ranks Among Best

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—With every section of the state represented, 133 of the 564 dairy cows nominated for membership and the official gold medal of the Illinois 500-Pound Butterfat Cow club are still in the race for the coveted honors at the end of the first four months of their allotted year. Each of these 133 cows has produced 200 or more pounds of butterfat during the first third of the year. C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, said.

A membership and the official gold medal of the club will be awarded to each cow producing 500 or more pounds of butterfat by the end of the year. The purpose is to uncover the state's high producing cows and at the same time demonstrate to farmers and dairymen that they can get economical milk and butterfat yields through good breeding, careful handling and proper feeding of their cows.

Pacing the 133 cows which are still definitely in the race for the club honors is a grade Holstein owned by Carl Armstrong, Sandwich, Kendall county. Her record at the end of the first four months is 324.3 pounds of butterfat, or considerably more than half of the total she will have to produce to get into the select group in the coming eight months.

Twenty-four cows owned by 18 dairymen in 13 different counties of the state are far out in front with a record of 265 pounds of butterfat to their credit at the end of the first four months. Ogle county claims four of these leaders, DuPage and Peoria counties, three each, Montgomery, Kendall, Kane and McLean counties, two each, McHenry, Carroll, Cook, Bond, Will and Vermillion counties, one each.

Rock River Farms, Byron, have placed four of these 24 leaders. Bert Potter, Edelstein, three of them, and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Naperville, two of them. Other owners, each with one cow in the list of 24, are Carl Armstrong, Sandwich; Maywood Farm, Hebron; J. K. Rathbun, Glen Ellyn; Lawrence Kauffman, Mt. Carroll; Fred Olfman, Itasca; H. E. Ferguson, Reno; W. W. Pflug, Matteson; H. W. Crawford, Potomac; Conrad Schaefer & Son, Normal; Silver Glen Farm, St. Charles; Grimwood Brothers, Plano; S. G. Wilson, Butler; H. L. Averill, Batavia; Carl Hutchings, Harvel, and Snow & Palmer, Bloomington.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, May 29—(AP)—The

visible supply of American grain shows the following changes bushels: wheat decreased 3,485,000; corn decreased 1,770,000; oats decreased 866,000; rye decreased 92,000; barley increased 369,000.

KENTUCKY FARMER CLAIMS PORK PRODUCTION RECORD

Owensboro, Ky.—(AP)—Anselm Reiss, a farmer of the Rome section of Daviess county, Kentucky, claims a world's record for raising and marketing a litter of seven Poland China hogs.

The pigs in 180 days weighed 2,008 1-2 pounds. They sold at the current market price of 11 cents a pound, yielding $220.93. A total sum of $172 was spent in their production, which included the feed cost of the mother from the time of farrowing.

The seven pigs at farrowing weighed four pounds each. At the end of eight weeks the litter weighed 324 pounds and at the end of five last 30 days of the six months period months totaled 1,470 pounds. In the litter gained 538 1-2 pounds, or 77 pounds each.

Pastured on clover, for which they were charged at full price in the computation of production costs, as well as for the labor of tending them, the pigs made a net profit of $48.25, or $7 per pig. They were fed on a diet of whole corn, ground corn, rolled oats, tankage, cotton seed meal, skim milk and a mineral mixture.

Twenty-Eight Cars are Qualified Today
Start in Race

Indianapolis, May 29—(AP)—Related drivers had a last chance today to qualify their cars for the sixteenth annual 500-mile race which will be run tomorrow at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Two hours were set aside to permit five pilots to make the effort. One, however, Wilbur Shaw, who will drive Peter De Paolo's car, will be given until the morning of the race, if necessary. The machine was badly battered when De Paolo lost control and turned over last Saturday. De Paolo suffered bruises which will prevent his racing.

A majority of the stars of the sport will sit in the seats of the 28 machines which already have passed the qualification requirement of 90 miles an hour average for ten miles. Among them are Leon Duray who set two new track records last Saturday: Cliff Woodbury, Cliff Berger, Ralph Hepburn, George Souders, Norman Batten, Cliff Durant, Pete Kreiss and Ray Keech.

Every car which will start will have an eight cylinder motor, and with one exception the cylinders will be in a row. One V-type eight is entered. The field was increased to 28 yesterday when the veteran Earl Devore, Clarence Belt, L. L. Corum and Charles (Dub) Bauman put their cars through the proper pace. Devore's average of 109.810 was the best of the day.

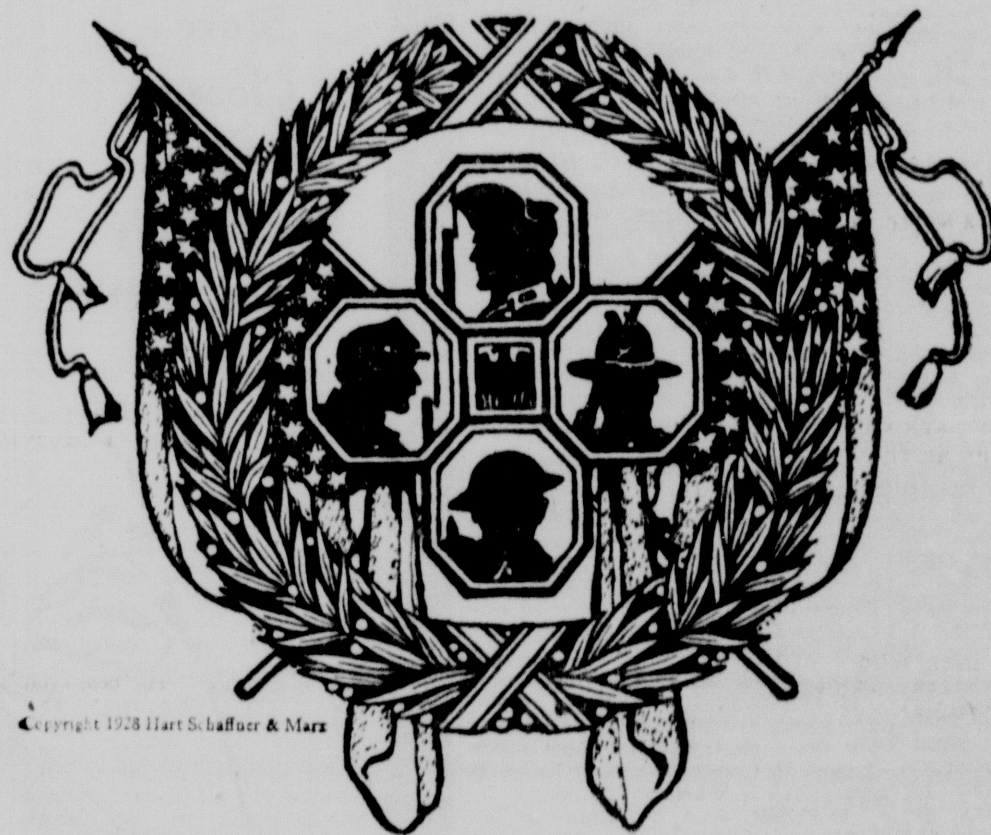

Oosterbaan to End Career Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29—(AP)—when the Michigan-Ohio State baseball game is over Saturday, the college athletic career of Bennie Oosterbaan, who many acclaim as Michigan's greatest athlete of all times, will end.

In three years of collegiate athletic competition, Oosterbaan has been on the All-American football team three times, and on the All-Conference basketball team twice. In baseball, he has played three seasons and was a mainstay of Michigan's championship team this year.

INTESTINAL WORMS

The presence of intestinal parasites will produce a variety of symptoms, such as a ravenous appetite, malnutrition, abdominal pain, the anemic face, with sometimes diarrhea. These symptoms are not always present by any means, and I have seen several cases where none of them were noticeable. The only positive method of diagnosing intestinal worms is to see them or sections of them in the bowel movements.

The most well known worms is the tapeworm, which is the largest of all the parasites that inhabit the human body. It is usually found in the small intestine, and may be diagnosed by finding sections of the worm in the stool.

Other frequently found worms are the thread worm, the round worm, and the hookworm. There are others of various sizes and shapes. Most of these worms enter the body directly with the food which contains the eggs. The worms grow first in the tissues of some animal, and if meat is not thoroughly cooked before eating, there is an opportunity for the worms to develop from the eggs. Beef, pork and fish are the meats most frequently affected. There is less danger now than formerly, because the big packing houses maintain a very rigid inspection.

These worms once established in the human, take their nourishment from the food of their host. This is the reason the individual harboring them usually becomes thin and has an enormous appetite. There is often a nervous irritation.

These parasites will often release their hold if the patient goes on a long water fast of from one to three weeks. If the worms do not detach then, the patient should take one of the numerous worm remedies which can be secured from any druggist. These remedies usually consist of something repugnant to the worm or something to expel it. The whole worm will often be passed with the next movement of the bowels.

Pin worms are usually found in the lower colon, and can usually be expelled by the use of two enemata daily.

In children, it is not advisable to place them on a strict fast. Good results will follow the use of an exclusive acid fruit diet for several days, accompanied by the enema.

There are many other types of parasites found in the bowel contents, mostly micro-organisms including many disease bacteria. There is positively no need for these harmful ones developing. Bad mixtures of food are mostly responsible for producing the soil in which they develop. Even when present, they can be quickly eliminated through changing to a clean, wholesome diet, following a short period of fruit fasting and frequent enemata.

SUBSTITUTES FOR FRESH VEGETABLES

If you have been following my articles, you are aware that I recommend a large proportion of non-starchy vegetables for properly balancing the menu. This is not only for the sake of pleasing the palate by adding to the variety of foods used, but is also for the purpose of adding very important vitamins and alkaline producing elements.

The foods that contain more alkaline elements than any other foods are in this order: spinach, cucumbers, celery, chard and lettuce. Spinach being the most valuable of these, the richest of all foods, you can see one reason why I advise its use particularly. If possible, one of these vegetables at least should be used with the other non-starchy vegetables at either the protein or starch meals.

In many parts of the world, it is practically impossible to secure fresh vegetables at any time, or at least at certain seasons, so I am suggesting either indoor cultivation of some of these, say, Swiss chard, from which the leaves may be broken as they become large enough without interfering with the growth of the plant; or, the germination of seeds which can be easily done and is a good substitute for fresh vegetables. Peas, wheat and rye are well suited to this purpose. The Orientals use mung beans, which sprout in a very satisfactory manner, and are handled commercially in many markets.

The process of sprouting is similar with all types of these seeds. They should be soaked in water for twenty-four hours and then transferred to a large can with a perforated bottom suitable for drainage. They should then be covered with moist sacking which is sprinkled with water three or four times daily until the seeds are sufficiently sprouted. The container should be stored in a room of moderate temperature. The length of time required varies with the warmth, but three or four days are usually required. They are sufficiently matured when the sprouts are half an inch to an inch in length.

For table preparation, they should be thoroughly washed and placed in slightly salted boiling water and cooked for about twenty minutes. You will find these vegetables will furnish a pleasing and wholesome addition to your menus.

Even the peas and wheat, which ordinarily contain large amounts of starch, may be classified as non-starchy vegetables after this germinating process because the starch is changed to a soluble form by the growing ferments. These sprouts are rich in all known vitamins. They may even be used raw by those with strong digestions.

I have found that modern methods of canning preserve much of the food value, and I heartily recommend the use of canned goods where fresh vegetables are not obtainable. This diet should be supplemented with raw greens whenever possible. Send for my articles "Use Canned Vegetables if Necessary."

As the different vegetables contain varying amounts of alkaline producing salts, it is advisable to alter those which are available. Much of the value of cooked food is absorbed by the water in which it is cooked.

If you wish to receive the full benefit of these elements, either use the water as a soup, or allow it to evaporate back into the vegetables.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: K. L. asks: "Will you kindly tell me what would be the correct treatment for a young man about 20 years of age who has a great deal of albumin? The Company doctor advised him to go to bed."

ANSWER:—The going to bed treatment will be of little permanent use to a young man 20 years of age who has such a serious disorder of metabolism as to have a great deal of albumin in the urine. He needs diet and exercise to correct the faulty metabolism which is responsible for his trouble. Keep him on his feet and fighting to get well, as this is his only hope.

QUESTION: Mrs. O. M. asks: "How are codded eggs prepared?"
ANSWER:—Codded eggs are prepared by pouring boiling water over them while in the shells, and allowing to stand about eight minutes. When broken open, the egg should have a jelly-like consistency but, at the same time, should be so well cooked that there is no transparent albumen.

QUESTION: Mother writes: "I enjoy reading your articles from day to day and find them very helpful. The literary style of them is so simple and plain that I find them very interesting. My little girl, although going for hours during the day without a desire to urinate, soaks the bed in a few minutes after she lies down for a nap, or at night after she retires. We allow her no drink at the evening meal. What is causing her trouble?"

ANSWER:—My idea in writing this column is to give my readers all the helpful information I can. I am glad you appreciate my efforts to make this a real health column which will be of particular value to the layman. Please send me your name and address so I can send you a special article which will tell you how to get rid of your little girl's trouble.

QUESTION: J. G. writes: "Will you please tell me what I can do for my nose, as no matter how much cream or powder I put on it, it is always red as a beet at the point?"
ANSWER:—A red nose is an evidence of continued intoxication, either from the over-use of alcoholic stimulants, or from dietetic errors which produce auto-intoxication. The latter is the most common cause of red noses, and even our most sincere prohibitionists often carry around a red, shiny nose that, in the old days we used to think was acquired only by the "town drunkard."

QUESTION: H. L. asks: "Will you tell me if cocoa and chocolate are fattening?"
ANSWER:—If you are underweight, no amount of "stuffing" on these foods will permanently and healthfully build you up; if you are overweight, it is certainly not advisable for you to use them.

QUESTION: B. C. asks: "What causes the feet to sweat, and the cure?"

ANSWER:—The feet sweat more than most parts of the body because they are enclosed in the leathery covering of shoes. This holds in the heat and produces the excessive sweating. Those who are too much troubled with sweating feet should be careful to change their socks at least once daily, and take also two sponge or shower baths daily to cleanse the skin all over the body. If the pores are thus kept clean, the sweat glands will be more active in other parts besides the feet. It is a good plan to provide yourself with several pairs of shoes so that any one pair is not used more than once or twice weekly. Do not apply anything to keep the feet from sweating, but keep them as clean as possible.

SPANISH BANK GUARDSPRECIOUS GOLD STORE

Madrid — (AP) — The enormous quantity of gold and silver kept in the cellars and safes of the Bank of Spain as a guarantee for payment in metal of notes in circulation far exceeds the legally required 25 percent of the total paper issued.

The notes at the end of 1927 aggregated 4,202,441,175 pesos, or about $600,000,000, while gold and silver on hand amounted to 3,169,756,021 pesos or $600,000,000, of which three-quarters was in gold.

The metal ranges from old Spanish money to gold francs, sovereigns and dollars. The silver coins chiefly are Spanish.

The store, seldom seen by persons not closely connected with the bank, is kept in sacks, in piles of ingots and in artistically built pyramids, one of which, resembling in miniature those of Egypt, contains $2,600,000 in Spanish gold coins.

Bars guarding the fortune are believed to be impregnable, and there is no modern record of an attempt to break through from the outside.

BERLIN TO N. Y. IN HOUR DREAM OF SCIENTISTSNew Rocket Motor is Seen as a Means of Rapid Transit

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The recent successful test of a rocket-propelled auto near Berlin has turned world-wide attention on the new rocket motor, primarily intended for use in airplanes. Israel Klein, science editor of NEA Service here tells what the future may hold.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

Science Editor, NEA Service
Cleveland, Ohio — Think of flying from Berlin to New York, a distance of 4900 miles, in an hour—

Of sailing through rarefied air at a maximum speed of 4500 miles an hour—

Of reaching a height of 31 miles above the earth's surface—

And you have the future picture, according to present predictions, of the rocket-motored airplane that is even now in the first stage of construction.

The rocket plane is the ultimate goal of the builders of a motor that is propelled by a series of rocket explosions similar to those of a rocket pinwheel shooting into the air. It has just been applied near Berlin to an automobile which attained a speed of 125 miles an hour within 45 seconds of its start, and which may attain a speed for greater than ever reached by man in such a vehicle.

This is the unique idea of Fritz von Opel, German auto racing champion, who has been collaborating with the German airplane and motor builders, Raab and Katzenstein, in the construction of his rocket motor and its application first to automobiles and ultimately to airplanes.

Revolutionary as this might sound, however, it is taken quite seriously not only by von Opel and his co-workers, but by several European scientists, who have long been contemplating a similar idea. In fact, the Russian soviet government, it is said, has appropriated $250,000 to finance a Moscow scientist for experiments of this kind.

The idea of attaining excessive speeds and great heights, beyond the capabilities of present engines, has forced experimenters to entertain the principle of a rocket motor. This would be a motor that would force a body outward from the earth at a tremendous speed, much as an explosion does to a fireworks rocket.

It is believed this is the principle of the German rocket-motor, although the inventors are reticent about the matter. Max Valler, the Munich inventor, has long been figuring on this type of motor to propel an airplane almost at lightning speed across the Atlantic.

Valler has reduced his theories to practical figures, from which he concludes a trip from Berlin to New York could be made in a little more than an hour.

At the beginning of such a trip says Valler, the rocket airplane would have to contend with the resistance of the atmosphere, and therefore could be aided in its initial progress by a pair of propellers. Shooting up into the air at an angle of 70 degrees, however, the rocket airplane could reach a height of nine miles in less than a minute. At this height, the atmosphere would be so rare as to make the propeller practically worthless as a means of pulling the plane along and the ship would have to depend entirely for its further progress on the series of explosions of rockets in this peculiar motor.

The extremely thin air, however, would relieve the ship of so much resistance that it could attain a speed of 3500 miles an hour in a few seconds.

At a height of 31 miles above the earth, almost eight times the altitude actually attained by man, Valler figures the airplane could continue to go on an even keel parallel with the earth at a speed of 4500 miles an hour.

A bullet fired from a rifle would go only half as fast!

The rocket ship could reach this altitude at a distance of only 43 miles from its source and in a minute and 40 seconds.

In less than an hour the ocean could be crossed, and the plane could glide slowly down to earth. The gliding process would take longer than the actual flight.

The fact that human beings can't live in so rarefied atmosphere as that which exists 31 miles above the earth doesn't bother the advocates of the rocket airplane. They explain that the ship could have an airtight cabin, for both pilot and passengers, in which the oxygen content will always remain the same as that on the earth's surface.

The passenger therefore would feel no ill effects of mounting to so great a height.

Additional oxygen tanks might also carry oxygen for combustion of the rockets in the thin air of the lofty altitude.

THE PAPER WOOD
About fifty years ago red spruce began to be used as a raw material for making paper. Today it is the leading paper wood of the nation. Its long strong fibres, light color and the ease with which it pulps make it particularly adapted to paper manufacture. Fully half the red spruce cut in the United States goes to the pulp mills.

One big Sunday edition of a New York or Chicago newspaper with a circulation around a million uses all the pulpwood from 75 acres of spruce forest. The demand for paper pulp has become so enormous that large quantities of red spruce are imported from Canada.

Red spruce was not much used for building purposes until the supply of white pine in New England began to decline. A large per cent of red spruce lumber goes into planing mill products, especially interior finish. Because the wood imparts no taste it is used extensively for packing food products.

As an airplane wood spruce, including the red, Sitka, and white varieties, is the leader because of its lightness and strength. The same properties have brought about its use for ladders, scaffold planks, oars and paddles. Because of its resonant nature it is used in the manufacture of musical instruments.

POSSIBLE "FIRST LADY"

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Ritchie

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series on prospective "First Ladies," by Allene Sumner, writer for The Telegraph and NEA Service. Today's article deals with Mrs. Elizabeth Cabell Ritchie, mother of Maryland's bachelor-governor, Albert C. Ritchie, who is a Democratic presidential aspirant.

BY ALLENE SUMNER
Staff Writer for The Telegraph and NEA Service

Annapolis, Md., May 29—If handsome Albert C. Ritchie, Maryland's bachelor-governor, should be given the right to wind up the White House clock, put out the White House cat, and feed the White House goldfish, if any, after March 4, 1929, there would be a "regular old-fashioned mother of the garden, pink and lavender variety" as First Lady of the Land.

For the governor himself so described his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Cabell Ritchie, the present hostess of Maryland's beautiful old executive mansion in that way. And then he added: "And you don't see many of them left these days!"

His beautiful mother is the one subject on which Governor Ritchie dares boast. He adores her in story-book style. He tells you how beautiful she is, how graceful and charming. "Why, she even darns my socks!" he adds, boyishly.

Was Virginia Beauty
But beautiful Mrs. Ritchie who was Miss Lizzie Cabell, a Virginia belle who even today brings tender reminiscences from various silvery-haired "colonels" below the Mason-Dixie line, is no "Old Lady of the Chimney Corner."

One walks up the tulip-bordered brick walk of Maryland's executive mansion expecting to meet a fragile, bent little woman in lavender or gray wool shawl, knitting needles in hand, kindly blue eyes peering from behind spectacles perhaps—a replica of Whistler's "Mother."

But that picture is wrong. One meets a dark-haired dark-eyed erect little woman whom one refuses to believe has lived the 76 years biographical history records her. She has the charm of old-fashioned mothers of chimney corner days, but she is too, as modern as silk hose and telephones from America to Paris.

She is the old-fashioned pink and holly-hocks and cosmos and zenias all mixed up with orchids and American beauty roses and double hothouse violets. "I'd hate for the governor himself to read this diagnosis, for no lady ever gives another lady away. But—I just wonder—if that twinkle in the lovely lady mother's eyes as she bent over 'Albert's' gubernatorial socks didn't mean that maybe a very modern little lady finds it very diplomatic to play the "mother of the chimney corner" role.

"Men do so love home women," she says. "Albert likes to find me here at night with my darning or mending basket."

One thing is very sure and asks for no sub-rosa interpretations whatsoever—"Albert" gets exactly what he likes and wants—even the picture of a mother with her darning ball.

His Favorite Dish
And, too, the pickled pigs' feet—"Albert's" favorite dish—which his dainty little mother sees are upon the gubernatorial table at frequent intervals, though she feels that pigs' feet are not just the aristocratic diet for a Cabell and a Ritchie and a governor.

There's a decided smell in "Albert's" study, too, in the lovely old mansion. It's the accumulated aroma of the many smokes "Albert" must have when working far into the night on affairs of state. The First Lady does wish that the study were a bit more fragrant, but if "Albert" likes it like that, he shall have it.

Maryland's executive mansion here in quaint old Annapolis keeps open house to Maryland's citizenry. Most anyone, upon request, can walk up the flower-bordered walk to the white doorway and find the door already open and a smiling servant announcing cordially:

"Just walk right through all the rooms and look at anything you want to."

Though home life is very sweet to the Ritchies, mother and son, they believe that the storied old brick mansion belongs to the people as well as to themselves.

And if the visitors don't seem properly appreciative of the most beautiful Colonial stairway remaining in the country which coils its slim balustraded way up three flights and into a lovely shadowy dome, the First Lady will herself come forth from some corner to point out its beauty.

Purest Aristocrats
The Ritchies are purest aristocrats. Mrs. Ritchie's grandfather, William Cabell, was governor of Virginia from 1805 to 1808, and was later chief justice of the Virginia Court of Appeals. A granduncle, Joseph Cabell, served in the Virginia House of Delegates for 30 years and declined a cabinet position offered him by President James Monroe. He was Jefferson's right-hand man in founding the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Ritchie's father, Dr. Robert Gamble Cabell, was a famous Virginia doctor. James Branch Cabell, the novelist, is Mrs. Ritchie's nephew, the governor's cousin.

Her marriage to Judge Albert Ritchie, a prominent lawyer of Baltimore, in 1875, was a society event of the year. The governor's father died in 1903.

But blue-bloodedness has not made either Ritchie, mother or son, lose the common touch. No people could be more warmly human, considerate, hospitable, and at ease with humanity in general.

She Loves Flowers
It is the governor's mother who sees that the walk to the mansion is constantly bordered with flowers. "When the tulips go," the governor explains, "the next flowers, whatever they are, begin to bloom. She sees to that."

There is a radio tucked away under coats. It's a homey corner. Here the laden with the governor's various the big staircase and a coat rack First Lady is sometimes found, radio program on, sitting with her mending basket, to be seen by "Albert" the minute he comes home from his hard day's work in the statehouse just across the street.

Governor Ritchie in the White House would mean a White House mother to the nation!

SPAIN'S NEW TREATIES

ROUSE TRADE INTEREST

Madrid—(AP)—Drafting of new treaties of commerce between this country and other nations of Europe and America has created interest in the principal articles of trade.

From all the European countries combined, the imports into Spain reach a total of about $237,200,000, the chief sellers being France, Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Holland and Belgium, and the principal imports being dried fish, coal, silk and ordinary timber. The same countries also are the best buying customers for Spanish exports, which consist mostly of oranges, olive oil, cork, chemical products and wines, whose value, together with other articles, reaches about $204,000,000.

From all the nations of America a total value of nearly $137,600,000 is imported, the greater part of which comes from the United States, Argentina, Chile, Venezuela, Cuba and Ecuador, who send raw cotton, maize, coffee beans and dried fish. The American republics take Spanish goods to value of about $2,600,000 in exchange, these mostly going to the United States, Argentina, Cuba, Uruguay, Mexico and Brazil and consisting principally of cork, olive oil and cigaret papers.

DENUNCIATION OF OIL LEASES MADE BY SEN. REPORTS

Bristling and Pungent Terms Used by Nye in His Report

Washington, May 29.—(AP)—Bristling with pungent terms of denunciation of the naval oil leases and the Continental Trading Company deal, a report supplemental to that approved yesterday by the Teapot Dome committee was filed today by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, chairman of this Senate investigating group.

It went into the record along with the report of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who prosecuted the oil investigations and whose findings characterized Robert W. Stewart, Harry F. Sinclair, H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil as "conspirators" and denounced the entire deal as a "contemptible private steal."

"Never has the world known a case involving a degree of fraud, quite evident bribery, conspiracy and corruption to compare with what has come to be known as the Teapot Dome-Elk Hills-Continental Trading Company case," the Nye report said. Lease Worth $500,000,000.

"The leases involved in the case are estimated to have been worth not less than $500,000,000 and were consummated to use the language of the supreme court of the United States, 'By conspiracy, corruption and fraud.'"

"The investigation has uncovered the slimmest of slimp trails beaten by privilege. The investigation has shown, let us hope, privilege at its worst. The trail is one of dishonesty, greed, violation of law, secrecy, concealment, evasion, falsehood and cunning."

"It is a trail of betrayals by trust—betrayals of a government, of certain business interests and the people who trusted and honored them; it is a trail showing a flagrant degree of the exercise of political power and influence, and the power and influence of great wealth upon individuals and political parties; it is a trail of deceits and schemers far more dangerous to the well-being of our nation and our democracy than all those who have been deported from our shores in all time as undesirable citizens. And in the end the story is one of the crushing of brilliant careers when finally the light was played upon those who schemed those unhealthy schemes born in darkness."

Acquittals Assailed
"The acquittal verdicts in the Fall-Doherty and the Fall-Sinclair cases have been considered most deplorable failures of justice on every side, excepting only the side of privilege."

These failures have been of such nature as to prove the need for such changes in court procedure that will make advantage not more easily available to the criminal of great means than to the offenders who come out of the most lowly classes."

Reviewing the accomplishments of the long years of investigation, Senator Nye said there was a prospect for a general house cleaning in the oil industry." He held also that the investigation was bound "to bring some measure of political reforms."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

THE LILAC TREE

In the songful days of June,
When the birds are all a-tune,
And the honey-feast is coming for the humming bird and bee,
Of all the trees that grow,
And with blossoms that do blow,
The sweetest and the saddest is the lilac tree.

For though purple is the bloom
That its crisp buds assume,
Like the tint on the far-off mountain
beyond the pleasant sea,
Yet the freshness betrays,
And amid the shady leaves
There is ever a dead blossom on the lilac tree.

And so it is with all,
That in things both great and small
Of our life a distant gleaming in our dreaming we may see;
For when the heart is gladdened,
Oh, there's something in it saddest,
Like the blossom and the blight upon
the lilac tree.

If a Child's Nose is Running

By L. W. OAKS, M. D., Provo, Utah. Member Gorgas Memorial

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 No. Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

Discharge from the nose is a regular accompaniment of most common colds, and we naturally expect it to occur at such times. The discharge is an evidence of a battle going on in the nose between defensive forces of the body and some irritant, usually disease-causing bacteria or germs. The stream of secretion represents a river of waste materials carrying away the dead cells, dead bacteria, and other debris incident to the fight. Consequently, when the infection has been overcome and the cold clears up, this discharge should naturally cease. In many cases it keeps up for weeks or even months. This is especially true in children, and constitutes a serious condition that should have careful attention, without too great delay.

In nearly every instance where a running nose persists over such a long time, it means that the infection causing the cold fought its way into some of the deeper tissues from which it is not so easily dislodged. In most cases proper examination, by a physician especially trained in ear, nose and throat diseases, will reveal a condition known medically as ethmoiditis. The ethmoid cells are little cavities which normally have openings into the nose. They are very susceptible to infection by the germs of the common cold. Most of these infections get well as the cold does, but not a few persist afterwards. Such is the state of affairs when a "cold hangs on," as we say. Left to go on indefinitely, such a condition will eventually attack the bone surrounding the ethmoid cells, and the result will be a disease that requires a surgical operation to cure. If handled at the beginning by a competent specialist in diseases of the nose, ethmoiditis can readily be cured, and the individual saved from the operation as well as from innumerable consequences of focal infection.

As a general thing, one should seek attention for any cold in the head that persists longer than two weeks. This is another instance where delay is almost certain to do inestimable harm.

When elevators and stairs were destroyed in the explosion at the Mather Collieries Co. mine at Mather, Pa., August Cornack (inset) slid down a water pipe to the bottom of the shaft, rescued three men and recovered three bodies. Cornelius Beatty, who was among the rescued, is pictured with his wife and son, Paul.

Political Gossip

Washington, May 28.—(AP)—Testimony that several attempts had been made to investigate the activities of Frank J. Hale while Hale was a prohibition official was given the Senate campaign funds committee today by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General.

Hale's magazine, "Politics," is opposing the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for president and the committee has been trying to learn about its financing.

The Assistant Attorney General said when one of the inquiries had progressed to a point "when the truth would probably come out." Hale procured an endorsement from a Mr. Chamberlain whom she described as "a close personal friend" of Lincoln C. Andrews, then Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement. The investigation was stopped.

That inquiry had disclosed, she said, that immediately after Chamberlain endorsed Hale the latter was put in control of alcohol permits in New York and Chamberlain showed a very much improved financial condition.

The Assistant Attorney General testified that before that time Chamberlain's bank deposits had never exceeded $300 a month. Afterwards Chamberlain started making deposits from $1,000 to $5,000 a month. She said, adding that in a little more than a year he put $90,000 in one bank and $65,000 in another.

She told the committee that on one occasion Chamberlain made an all night visit with Hale and later showed twenty-one thousand dollar bills.

BUSH LEAGUE UMPIRES BAND TO BOOST GAME

Minneapolis—(AP)—Umpire bailing is risky business in the verdant baseball "bushes" of the northwest. A group of 50 former ball players, many of them big leaguers in their day, comprise an organization that does most of the officiating in the small leagues and independent circuits.

They virtually have revolutionized umpiring in the smaller centers where baseball is still the national pastime, golf to the contrary notwithstanding, and now have more openings than they can fill, says H. J. O'Donnell, Minneapolis, president of the Northwest Umpires Association.

Several clubs, including some major league teams, have profited by the judgment displayed by the arbiters in recommending young players for tryouts.

HEROISM OF MARINES IS COMMENDED

Official Report of Recent Fighting is Received

Managua, Nicaragua, May 29—(AP)—How Captain Robert S. Hunter, U. S. M. C. of Prescott, Kansas, died rallying his men against Sandoz's rebels is described in a report received at Marine headquarters. It gives details of the fighting at La Flor near the Cua river when a small Marine patrol was attacked by rebels on May 13 and 14.

Captain Hunter was wounded in the neck in such a manner as to make speech almost impossible. Corporal William R. Williamson of St. Louis was killed instantly by rebel fire. Captain Hunter seized a Thompson machine gun from the hands of the dead Corporal and was firing upon the rebels with it when he was knocked down by a second bullet which pierced his chest. His last words were a command to his men:

Last Word A Command
"Don't go back, go ahead."

Special mention is made in the report of Lieutenant Earl S. Piper of St. Louis, who was left in command when Captain Hunter died, and of seven enlisted men in the patrol.

After Captain Hunter was struck the second time, a group of rebels who suddenly opened fire from the left flank were quickly silenced by Private Clay O. Parish of Draper, North Carolina. A few minutes later the rebels withdrew. This entire action lasted about 50 minutes and the Marines were not able to pursue the rebels because they had to care for their own wounded.

Captain Hunter was made as comfortable as possible and a stretcher was improvised for the Captain's removal in the morning. At 11:35 P. M. Corporal Williamson was buried by his companions who offered such simple prayers as they were able.

At 8 A. M. on the fourteenth, the patrol left for La Flor. Captain Hunter was carried on the stretcher by eight Marines. This was a difficult task because of the narrow trail. At 8:15 Corporal Clayton W. Cox of Edwards, Ill., prevented a dangerous ambush when he saw a force of rebels and opened fire before they could fire upon the Marines. Rebel fire immediately broke out to the right and rear of the Marines.

Attacked From Rear
The rebels rushed at the rear under the cover of two machine guns, apparently with the intention of capturing the pack train. Private Buttrago Rosenberg of the national guard was struck by a dum-dum bullet and killed instantly.

A few minutes later the firing ceased and the insurgents disappeared. The Marines started forward again and violent firing broke out on the right flank. The rebels continued their attack for about an hour and then fled.

With the retirement of the rebels, Lieutenant Piper moved his column into La Flor intending to evacuate the wounded as soon as possible. Captain Hunter was greatly weakened from being moved but appeared to be gaining in strength up to the hour of his death at 3:25 A. M. on May 18. He died very peacefully.

Praised Captain
Lieutenant Piper and all of the non-commissioned officers and men of his command spoke in the highest terms of their dead captain.

These men have been especially mentioned for their bravery and conduct under fire. Pharmacist's Mate Young, Gunner Sergeant Blackburn, Sergeant Charles Peiz, Private Hood, Sergeant Charles L. Arndt, of New York City, Corporal Clayton W. Cox, Private Michael T. Fisher of Albany, N. Y., Private James P. Harrison, Corporal Spencer T. Honyst of Falls View, Canada, Sergeant Brown and Private Parish.

Lowden to Speak at Wis. Meeting
Milwaukee—(AP)—Wisconsin, one of the largest dairy cattle states, will be host to one of the largest associations of dairy cattle owners June 1-7, when the Holstein-Friesian association of America holds its forty-third annual convention here.

Frank O. Lowden of Mississippi, Illinois, president of the association, will preside over the sessions.

The first day of the convention is an open forum at which delegates and visitors will discuss dairy problems. The convention proper opens the following day with the convention transacting annual business and election of officers. The third day will be devoted to the Ninth National Cooperative Holstein sale. Seventy-five head of the best cattle of the breed have been consigned by leading breeders from coast to coast, and will be sold under the auctioneer's hammer to the highest bidder.

Delegates from forty-seven states, the district of Columbia and Canada have been named to attend the convention. Many other breeders are expected to attend the sessions in order to be present at the sale, and to visit the many leading Holstein breeding establishments in Wisconsin.

The Holstein-Friesian association of Wisconsin is acting as host for the occasion.

"CHIPS FROM WASHINGTON"

May 27, 1928.

We had another one of those severe rain storms last night. It was a real thunder storm. But this morning the sun is shining, the air has been cooled off and the birds are singing. Capitol Park looks very inviting.

Congress has gotten down to business. Night sessions. The Senate was in session 24 hours, a record. Up all night. Senators brought pillows and tried to get some sleep while colleagues were speaking. Maybe we will adjourn Tuesday. One never knows until the adjournment bells ring.

We have enjoyed a real juggling match between the President and Congress for the past several days. The President would veto a bill and Congress would immediately override the veto. And so it goes. During Friday evening's session the House passed about seventy bills between the hours of eight and eleven o'clock. That's going some. Congressman Johnson was fortunate in having the last bill he had on the calendar passed.

Thomas Butler, the Quaker Congressman from Pennsylvania, passed away last night at the age of 72. He was chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs. Congressman Fred Britten of Illinois is the ranking member and will likely become chairman. Butler was one of the outstanding members of the House. A splendid gentleman. A hard worker. This death makes twelve members of Congress who have passed away since the beginning of the 70th Congress. Congressman White of Kansas is seriously ill and his death is looked for most any time.

Spain has a population of nearly 22,100,000.

The Roman Catholic Church has 58 per cent of the church members of Maine, 64 of that of New Hampshire, 53 of that of Vermont, 71 of that of Massachusetts, 75 of that of Rhode Island and 66 of that of Connecticut.

The House, May 21, passed a bill (S. 2327) authorizing an increase of $15,000,000 for the years 1930-1931 in the annual appropriation of $75,000,000 for Federal aid to State highway construction. Under the authorization the amount would be made available at the rate of $7,500,000 for each of the two years.

Undivided profits of Federal Land banks as of March 31, 1928 amount to $3,859,337.32.

Department of Agriculture gives notice of arrival of corn from Argentina.

Department of Agriculture is informed that a sugar beet area of 6,826,000 acres has been estimated by private sources in Europe.

Decreased winter wheat acreage in the world is predicted for 1928 season.

George Cramer, of the United States Marines, our "fire hall boy" of Dixon, called the other day. George will soon be discharged. He has made an excellent record. It is likely that George will remain in Washington. He is going to make an effort to get on the police force here. He will make a good officer. His training for that work has been excellent. George has taken many trips with the President, for he has been assigned to the Mayflower ever since he has been stationed at Washington. Sam, we should feel proud of your boy, George. "Let George do it." He has and he made good.

The largest number of ballots taken for a candidate for President in a Republican convention occurred in 1880 when James A. Garfield was nominated of the thirty-sixth ballot.

The Fenn Bill, which sets the date of May 1, for the 1930 decennial census, embracing both population and agriculture, has been passed by the House and has been sent to the Senate. Besides all the States, Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Guam, Samoa, the Panama Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands would be included in the enumeration. The Senate will pass the bill before adjournment.

Italy is electrifying 330 miles of railways and soon will have more than 1,000 miles supplied with current.

When eight boys were arrested for stealing at Caribou, Me., the court placed their parents on probation.

A legal light naturally feels put out when the judge turns him down.

Hon. Clarence Buck, Lowden's campaign manager, dropped into Washington the other day to tell the Senate Committee how much money he has spent to put Lowden over at Kansas City. Mr. Buck declares Lowden will win.

The President on May 23 signed H. R. 9495, authorizing an appropriation of $980,000 the first year, $500,000 the second year and thereafter a continuing appropriation of $1,480,000 for further development of cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics under the Smith-Lever Act of May 8, 1914. This amount would be distributed equally among the States and Territories of Hawaii upon their legislative assent to the provisions of the new law.

More than 600 war cemeteries have been laid out in France and Belgium in the past seven years.

Tennis clubs in England have an aggregate membership of 250,000 as compared with 80,000 in the United States.

The Auckland district of New Zealand has only 500,000 people on its 27,500 square miles of land.

Nearly 700 soldiers of the army of the Rhine have married German women.

President Coolidge on May 25 signed a bill which authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to lease for use for airport purposes any public lands, not to exceed 640 acres. The leases would be for periods not exceeding 20 years, subject to renewal.

The House amended and passed the bill amending the World War Veterans' Act, relating to funeral expenses, etc., for veterans who died without assets, attaching the provisions of the Senate bill. The bill now requires Senate Concurrence of conference action.

Treaties of friendship, commerce and consular rights with Honduras and Latvia were ratified by the Senate on May 25. The Senate also ratified a convention with Greece to aid in the prevention of smuggling of alcoholic beverages.

To give the residents of every large commercial center in the United States the benefit of the Air Mail Service, the Postmaster General, announced May 25 that, effective July 1, the overnight air mail service from New York to Chicago will be extended so as to include the cities of Cedar Rapids and Des Moines, Iowa, and Omaha and Lincoln, Nebraska.

More than 500 automobiles have been sold at Saloniki, Greece, in the past year.

In Germany the Prussian department of justice is working on a prison plan which will allow each prisoner two cells—parlor and sleeping cell. The parlor will have a radio.

Harmonica playing throughout the world is increasing. Much of the interest has been stimulated by the mouth organ contests that have been held in many cities. Wuerttemberg, Germany, with tiny Trossingen in the Black Forest as the center of the industry, shipped 50,561,400 harmonicas to other parts of the world last year. This is an increase of 913,400 over 1926.

According to the opinion of Prof. H. L. Shantz, no more than 8,000,000,000 people can be fed if all the land areas of the world capable of yielding food are put into agriculture, grazing, or whatever uses they are best suited for.

Electricity rates in England are being reduced to pre-war figures.

Three hundred sewing machines of American make are being installed in a new clothing factory in South Africa.

President Coolidge signed two bills authorizing the Secretary of War to receive two Chinese and two Siamese subjects for instruction at West Point Academy. The candidates would be designated by their respective governments.

President Coolidge, it was stated officially, May 25, is gratified over the manner in which Congress has handled measures authorizing appropriations and holding amounts appropriated substantially within the recommendations of the Bureau of the Budget. The President, it was explained further, believes Congress apparently will be able to wind up affairs of the first session of the 70th Congress in good order.

Former Senator Lawrence V. Sherman of Illinois was in Washington the other day on his way from Florida to Kansas City. Senator Sherman is now a resident of Florida and has been elected a delegate at large from Florida to the Republican national convention. He belongs to the Florida delegates instructed to vote for Herbert Hoover for President. It would be well for the Illinois delegates to get a hold of "Larry" and win him over to Lowden.

The whole world is now chewing American gum, says the Foodstuffs Division of the Department of Commerce. The estimated consumption in the United States is around 70,000,000 pounds annually, which means that the quota of every man, woman and child in this country is approximately 100 sticks each year. The total value of this consumption is not far from $100,000,000. Until the time our soldiers went to France, gum chewing was almost a strictly American pastime. In 1914, for instance, our total gum shipments over seas, were valued at less than $200,000. The result of the American soldier introducing gum into Europe is shown by the figures for exports since 1919. During that period they had a value of over $2,000,000, which has been maintained with slight fluctuations ever since. Great Britain is the greatest foreign consumer of American gum, followed by the Netherlands, Mexico and the Philippines. Last year Japanese consumed about $50,000 worth; China $30,000 worth, while Siam is credited with nearly $1,500 worth.

Unless the Senate does not juggle the game the first session of the 70th Congress will adjourn Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Within several hours after the close members of the House and Senate will be on their way to Kansas City where the fun commences. Many of the Democratic brethren will go to Houston to see Al Smith nominated. Tom Hefflin declares he's going, and if the convention permits Tom to speak he will talk the convention to death.

I'll not reach Dixon until after the first of July as there is a lot of work that Congressman Johnson wishes cleaned up before we depart for Illinois. Secretaries find plenty to do after the adjournment of Congress. Then again I am still under the doctor's care and he wants me to remain here for a while so that he can look me over. We are all quite anxious to get away and back home where God's people live and where the beautiful Rock River flows on to the sea. There is no place after all just like Dixon.

This is the Sabbath Day. Church bells are ringing and hundreds are strolling along to church. I'll go in a few minutes. My church is not far from the Capitol.

Good luck to each of you and may success crown your efforts, is my closing wish.

That's all.

Good bye.

BOY SCOUTS OF COOK CO. WILL CANOE ON ROCK

Will Visit Dixon on Their Journey Late in the Coming Month

Bob Becker, writing in Sunday's Chicago Tribune tells of a canoe trip down Rock River through Dixon to be made late next month by a number of Chicago Boy Scouts, and in his story Mr. Becker says some very pleasant things about the "Hudson of the West." His article is:

Rock river, one of Illinois' most beautiful streams, will resound to the swish of paddles and the cheers of Chicago boys beginning the last week in June, when The Tribune will sponsor a canoe trip for boys down Rock river from Rockford to the Mississippi. The "voyage" will start on the morning of June 25. Older boys who are expert campers and have passed the Boy Scout canoe and swimming tests will be chosen for the trip by the Scout organization of Chicago.

In paddling down Rock river, the canoe party will be on one of the most historic "flowing roads" in the middle west, a stream rich in Indian lore and history. For many centuries the Winnebago and the mound builders before them had their homes on its banks, and many warring and hunting parties of Redskins have passed over the route which will be followed by The Tribune canoe party.

Heartily endorsing this interesting outdoor adventure for boys and offering their cooperation on the trip, are the American Canoe association, western division, and the camping committee of the Chicago Scout organization, of which William M. Scudder is chairman.

Although this canoe trip will be sport, it also will be educational says E. Urner Goodman, Scout executive of Chicago, who is enthusiastic about the "down to the sea in ships" cruise for Chicago boys.

"The Tribune is to be commended for its interest in boys and for sponsoring projects like this which make better boys," said Mr. Goodman yesterday in commenting on the trip. "This canoe cruise will be fun, of course, but it also will be a traveling school of the outdoors and Chicago-land history and as such of great benefit to the lucky youngsters who make the trip."

Boys Compete for Prizes.
Dr. Howard Wakefield, president of the American Canoe association, has pledged the cooperation of his organization, and it is expected that several association members from Chicago and Rockford will join the cruise as "pilots."

The score or more boys who make the cruise will be under the supervision of A. R. Pieper, Portmaster of the Chicago Sea Scouts, Theodore Shearer, assistant scout master, announced yesterday.

The Tribune will offer prizes to the boys for accomplishments in bird observation, canoe craft, fire making and campcraft. Another prize will be awarded to the youngster who writes the best story of a day's trip during the cruise, as the boys will assist this scribe in sending in daily reports of the adventures which the party experience while paddling down the famous old Rock river.

THIS ONE STILL TICKLES
GOWDY AND SOUTHWORTH
Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—This is a secret kept for 14 years.

Hank Gowdy and Billy Southworth are from Columbus, O. Hank was a star behind the bat with the Braves when Billy was trying to get a foothold with the Cleveland Indians. The two clubs met in Macon, Ga., in 1914, and the game was close. Southworth came to bat and Rudolph was pitching. Hank was Rudolph's best friend but still he wanted that kid Southworth to make good. So he whispered to Southworth what Rudolph was going to throw and Southworth hit a double. That helped to win the game.

The next time up Gowdy was about to bring in enough runs to win for Boston with a long line drive out of the park when what did Southworth do but make a long run, put one foot on the fence and reach up for a one hand catch.

When Gowdy joined the Rocker Red Wings he and Southworth, who is managing the club, had a laugh over the day in Macon. They're great pals and Hank is glad to be with his friend from Columbus.

POLISH SILK TARIFF HELPS OWN INDUSTRY
Warsaw—(AP)—Poland has definitely decided to be a silk manufacturing country.

The experiment of a young Polish girl, Stanislas Witaczek, and her brother, Henry, who started the cultivation of silk worms in Poland, proved so successful that the Polish Government is laying special stress on cultivating the mulberry trees and silk worms. Polish railroads have decided to plant nothing but mulberry trees along the tracks, thus protecting the tracks from snow in winter and nourishing the silk worms in the summer.

The silk industry has a double importance in Poland. It will bring an additional income to small farmers, and it will reduce the importation of foreign silks, desirable in view of the unfavorable trade balance.

ARMY LACROSSE TEAM POINTS FOR OLYMPICS
West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—By defeating the Johns-Hopkins University twelve recently, the Army lacrosse team has gone a long way toward winning the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games. The United States team selected will play Canadian and English twelve in an exhibition of the Indian sport at Amsterdam.

The Army outfit, composed largely of football stars, including Harry Wilson, won by 5 to 3 over the Hopkins aggregation which won the intercollegiate championship last season.

Hopkins and Navy are the principal opponents on the Army schedule and if the cadets can stop their old rivals, the Middles, here June 2 their chances of going over seas are considered bright.

Football stars on the Army team in addition to the famous half back, Wilson, are Born and Harbold, O'Donnell, Saunders, Draper and Anderson. The ability of these hardy athletes to absorb punishment has been a big reason for Army's success so far. The great work of Goldberg at goal has been another important factor.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Philadelphia, defeated Willie Davis, Charleroi, Pa., (10).
New Orleans — Tony Canzone knocked out Claude Wilson, Birmingham (1). Al Jerome technically knocked out Johnny McNally (1).
Cleveland, O. Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, defeated Tony Marullo, New Orleans (70).
Maunrice Holtzer, France, knocked out Harry Crisp, Cleveland (6).

Frankie Simms, Cleveland, knocked out Larry Roush, Detroit (2).

Americans and Japs To Fight Zone Play

New York, May 29—(AP)—Japan and the United States will fight it out for the right to meet the winners of the European zone Davis Cup competition.

The Japanese gained the final bracket in the American zone yesterday by eliminating Canada, three matches to one, at Montreal, twenty-four hours after the United States had beaten China in the other semifinal, 5 to 0.

The two survivors clash at Chicago June 1, 2 and 3 with the Americans favorites to advance to the inter-zone finals at Paris later this summer.

If the Americans dispose of the Japanese at Chicago, they probably will meet Italy in the inter-zone finals.

What one taste showed Mrs. Cadle about Pie Crust

A SWEET delicate shortening can make the crust of a pie as delectable as the filling! To make sure that your shortening is sweet and delectable, test it the same way you test your milk and butter—taste it!

Mrs. Katherine M. Cadle did just that; then wrote us:

"The taste of Crisco is sweet, agreeable—without the slightest trace of any 'strong flavor' which one occasionally finds even in the best of other shortenings.

"For pies, Crisco has proven excellent; it makes a flaky crust that browns beautifully and has a fine flavor."

Standard Pie Crust

Amount for one-crust pie (Or baked shell)	For medium size two-crust pie
1½ cups pastry flour	2 cups pastry flour
½ cup Crisco	¾ cup Crisco
¾ teaspoon salt	¾ teaspoon salt
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water	6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift pastry flour and salt together. Cut shortening in with two knives until the consistency of small peas. Add only enough ice water to hold. Roll. For baked shell, cover bottom of pie plate. Leave enough edge to fold back to make it firm. Put in well with a fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Pie

1 cup sour cream	1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup sugar	¾ teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg

Line patty pans with crust, put in the filling and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325° F. and bake until filling is set about 30 minutes. When done, top with meringue made of two egg whites beaten stiff and four tablespoons of powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.

Mrs. Button, 98, on Pension Rolls

(Editor's Note—Mrs. Samantha R. Button, subject of the following Memorial Day feature story, is the grandmother of Leonard G. and Frank Rorer of the Dixon Theater.)

Mrs. Samantha Rorer Button, 98, who will see to it that her son's grave is decorated today..... At 16, he left her and marched away to war in 1864 and never came back alive.

BY JOE LOVE

West McHenry, Ill., May 29.—On the front porch of a small house here sits Mrs. Samantha Rorer Button, 98, a kindly little woman who dreams of her "soldier boy" who marched away to war in February, 1864, and never came back.

Except for an aged negro woman in Alabama, whose son fled from slavery to enlist in the federal forces, she is the last of the Civil War mothers.

Born in Pennsylvania in 1830 she came west with her parents and settled in McHenry. At a very early age she married. Three boys were born to her before she was twenty—Clinton, Leonard and Frank. Clinton, the oldest, was the soldier. He enlisted in Company H, 18th Illinois Cavalry, in February, 1864, when he was 16.

Tells of Son

Mrs. Button, now wrinkled and worn, sits alone with her reminiscences.

"I have had to work hard all my life but we did have the jolliest times," she says. "When Clinton was old enough to dance I taught him how and was his first partner. I'll have you know I was no wall-flower in those days."

Then the Civil War came and with it a call for recruits. Local companies were formed in McHenry and they drilled not far from the Rorer home. "There was parading up and down the streets with torches and drums," she says. "Clinton was only 16 but he was big and strong and they took him in. They drilled up and down that street." She shouldered her cane to illustrate.

"They gave him a cape and they paraded and paraded and then one day they went away and I never saw him alive again," she continued. "I didn't mind it so much at first because my brother was in the same company and he promised to look out for him. And the captain and his wife were friends and used to write to me."

A few months later her son was taken down with typhoid fever and removed to a hospital. She thinks it was Camp Relief at Washington.

"I wanted to go to him but I couldn't manage with the other children. And he died.... my soldier boy.... he died calling for his mother," she says with eyes brimming with tears.

Decorates His Grave

He was brought back and buried near his home. Every year Mrs. Button sees that his grave is decorated.

Mrs. Button attributes her long life to hard work and exercise, three meals a day and not eating between meals. She has practically no use for doctors.

"I haven't taken five cents worth of doctors medicine in the last fifty years and I've had enough grief to kill forty women.... but here I am," she says.

Mrs. Button, then Mrs. Rorer, was placed on the pension rolls in December, 1864, at $8 a month. The pension terminated in 1870 when she married James Button, but he died in 1899. In December 1926, she filed for pension renewal as a dependent mother and got it.

The only other Civil War mother on the pension rolls is Samantha Farrer, of Athens, Ala., mother of Henry Farrer, a former slave, who enlisted in Company F, 110th Colored Infantry. He was captured and died in a Confederate prison. She is now past 100 but does not know her exact age.

Now that house cleaning time has arrived you may find articles of furniture you wish to dispose of. A 50c ad in the Dixon Telegraph is bound to bring results.

COLD FISH BUSINESS IS FARMER'S SIDELINE

Nashua, N. H.—(AP)—The owner of a farm near here is fishing gold from a little brook that rambles across his place—gold in the form of goldfish that later swim in bowls in store windows.

The gold fish don't just happen to be in his brook, however, for he has developed goldfish farming into a lucrative sideline.

Before the spring spawning season the owner of the brook buys hemp rope, cuts it into short lengths and separates the strands until the ropes look like bushy brushes. Placed in the water, the brushes for ideal repositories for eggs.

The brook is divided into separate pools and the egg-masses are gathered carefully with pails and placed in a pool where little current moves the water. Under the warm sun thousands of baby goldfish are hatched.

In some of the pools may be seen parent fish, eight inches or more in length. When the youngsters grow to two inches or more they are ready to adorn somebody's home.

Baby fish which do not inherit the rich red-gold color of their parents are sold as bait to fishermen.

LAZY? WORK THIS
If you're inclined to be LAZY this time of year you may find it hard to WORK today's letter golf puzzle, otherwise it's fairly easy. Par is six, but you may be able to beat the solution on page 11.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

A. F. RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon
the sudden death of her father,
goes to live with a friend, CLA-RISSA DEAN, and her father.
Her fiancé, NATHANIEL DANN,
objects to this for she mistrusts
DEAN'S motives. Upon phoning
NIEL's studio late one night, VIR-GINIA is surprised when his model, CHIRI, answers. This causes a quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get NIEL away,
DEAN arranges to have him offered a position in San Francisco.
NIEL begs VIRGINIA to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art.

VIRGINIA becomes jealous of CLARISSA, and the latter resolves to leave, but DEAN opposes her departure and asks her to marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $10,000 in a booklegging deal.

Rocklessly, VIRGINIA pledges herself to marry him if she fails to save the money to repay him in one year's time. She then goes to a cheap hotel after paying one of her friends the sordidness of the place makes her realize her changed fortunes, but real panic
comes when she hears a brawl through the thin partition and then she knows that she has indeed made a mistake in her choice.

She checks out immediately and consults her attorney who recommends a small, quiet hostelry to which she goes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX

VIRGINIA'S things had arrived, she was told, and she asked to have them sent up immediately. It gave her welcome activity to unpack and make a list of the pictures and the few objects d'art she had in her suitcases. The trunks that she had there, she learned. She called her former home on Park Avenue and directed the superintendent to send them to her new address. They contained nothing but clothing, very little of which she cared to wear now, so she was not impatient to receive them.

It was a different Virginia who presented herself at Mr. Gardiner's office a second time that day. A bit of the thrill of a good fight had got through her despondency and incited her to a desire for action.

"Call up in the morning and I'll let you know about these things,"
he said, referring to the list she had made.

"I really think I have a right to them," Virginia said wistfully.
"They were mother's."

"Well, of course they're yours, but then just make sure that they are not on the unpaid bills, so's to avoid the possibility of trouble."

This time Virginia left the building with a lighter heart. It meant something to be allowed to hope that she was not to be stripped of the very last possession that linked her with the life that seemed now to have been a fairy tale.

But she could not know beyond doubt until morning; and in the meantime she must communicate with Nathaniel. He might have called the Deans and learned that she was gone. Virginia was smitten with remorse that she had left the day so nearly go by without calling him.

Virginia had glimpsed the small hotel parlor where every word spoken could be overheard.
They might take a ride on a bus top up Riverside Drive, but what a place for Nathaniel in a temper
—as he was sure to be.

Well, why not go his studio? It was the best place in the world,
Virginia thought, to tell him what had happened with Clarissa. That would be enough to explain why she was breaking with the Deans.
Nathaniel would be sure to urge an early marriage, but she could find some reason for putting it off.

After a ride down to Washington Square on a bus Virginia walked to Nathaniel's studio and found him at work. Chiri was posing for him in a red bathing suit balance on the angling road south.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

SPORT SLANTS

BY BRIAN BELL

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen has never offered his golf kingdom for a horse because it has not been necessary. He has the horse, unidentified by name, but resident of a little town in Florida.

"To what single factor, if any, do you attribute your return to winning form in your play this winter and spring?" Gene was asked.

"A horse down in New Port Richey, Fla." was the reply.

The former open and P. G. A. champion explained:

"I feel right this year for the first time since I have been playing serious competitive golf. There are several reasons, but I place the horse first."

"All winter I rode horseback all the time I wasn't playing golf, eating or sleeping. I have never been really well."

My health has been bad, off and on, mostly off, for a long time and knew that if I did not get myself in shape, I wouldn't win any more championships.

"Right behind the horse I placed my old friend Artie McGovern, who did a lot for Babe Ruth's baseball and Johnny Farrell's golf. Artie fixed me up with a diet list."

"Then the horse took up where Artie left off and between them they did the work. I am in fine shape now and I am sure all I have to do is to watch my diet and keep up my exercises. Of course I can't take the horse out on the golf course with me, and as that is where I am spending all my time now, I will forego my riding exercises until next winter. But that old horse will be waiting for me."

"I look like I'm in the pink of condition all the time but I am not a good as I look in health. I have had a lot of operations and doctoring and I never felt fully recovered from them until this spring and winter. I played wonderful golf all winter and in the British open I never felt better. I tell you I never missed a shot in the tournament."

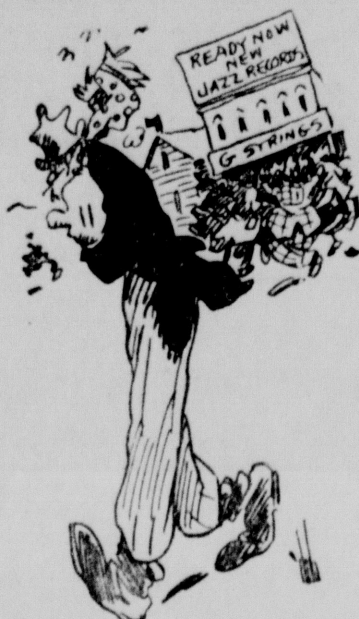

"At that I feel fine over the result of the British tournament. I was second, just two strokes behind Hagen, and that's a good deal better than a lot of my friends thought I would do."

"I think this is my year and I expect to be right up among the leaders at Olympia Fields in the open."

If he does much better than he did in 1927 the man who wins will have to beat him, for he was third in the open last year.

Gene's big golf year was 1922 when, as a 20-year-old pro, he won the open championship of the United States and followed with a victory in the Professional Golfers Association championship.

I don't know how Californy climate affects folks in general, but murderers who chop little children up seem t' live longer out there than in any other locality in America. Kiss an' make up, humph! Kiss an' wash up sounds more like it.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

(BY THE AP)

The American League's first crucial series of the season proved serious only insofar as it concerned the Athletics.

Before the tremendous hitting power of the New York Yankees, the Philadelphia could make no headway and snared only one victory in the six-game series that ended yesterday.

Consequently the Yankees were leading the procession today eight full games in advance of the second-place Athletics.

The last engagement saw the champions steam-roller the Mackmen into submission, 11 to 4. For the second time in the series, the famed speed of Lefty Grove failed to stop Babe Ruth and company. After his teammates had given him a four to two lead in the third inning when Al Smith hit a homer with two on base, Grove was pounded for five runs in the fifth. Orwoll and Powers finished the game.

Ed Morris, big right hander of the Boston Red Sox, saw a promising winning streak snapped when Tom Zachary and the Washington Senators beat him 2 to 0.

Walter Beck, former Western League pitcher, struck out nine men and allowed two hits as the St. Louis Browns nosed out Chicago, 2 to 1. Seven of the strike outs came in the first four innings. Ted Blankenship and George Connolly allowed seven hits, one of them a home run by Lou Blue, Brown first baseman.

Only one game was on the National League schedule but that saw the Cincinnati Reds strengthen their hold on first place by beating their nearest opposition, the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 1. Pete Donohue, pitching his first game of the year, held the Cubs to five safeties, sensational fielding by the Reds cutting down the enemy whenever they threatened. Donohue's single in the seventh scored the winning run.

Reigh Count Can't Race at Belmont

Chicago, May 29.—(AP)—Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago believes she and her Kentucky derby winner Reigh Count, are the victims of a $50,000 kick.

While at the post in the derby, the big red Chicago colt was kicked, suffering a cut about an inch long on his left hind leg. When the wound appeared to be healing, he was entered in the $50,000 Belmont Stakes, June 9. Yesterday it was announced he had been withdrawn from the rich stakes as the cut was still sore and bothersome.

Tennis Players to Organize for Year

Tennis enthusiasts are urged to be in attendance at a meeting at the YMCA tonight at 7.30 which has been called for the purpose of organizing for the season. The courts have been put into good condition, much hard work having been done, and lovers of the sport are invited to make use of them through membership in the YMCA Tennis Club. The modest fee of $1 admits to the privileges of the courts for the entire season. Tennis players, old and new, should avail themselves of the opportunity to belong to an organization of this kind. The meeting is called at 7.30 and a large attendance is desired.
